M'CLUNG'S $2858 EXPENSE ACCOUNT IS MADE PUBLIC

Chairman of Committee Which Investigated Disbursements Tells of Hearing.

COLLECTED AT PRISON

Warden Told Board Greater Part of Fund Was Used in Judge Slate's Campaign.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MONETT, Mo., Oct. 5.—William J. Fleming, Mayor of Monett, member of the Democratic State Committee and chairman of the subcommittee of the State Committee appointed early in January to investigate the disbursement of a fund of $2858 collected from employes of the Missouri Penitentiary for the State Committee, by D. C. McClung, indicted ex-warden, today consented, for the first time, to make public, through the Post-Dispatch, the result of the committee's inquiry, which included the questioning of McClung.

Fleming said McClung admitted to the committee that he had collected the money, and said that he had used the greater part of it in the interest of Circuit Judge J. G. Slate of Jefferson City, in whose court McClung was indicted a week ago, and who will preside at the trial of McClung unless he disqualifies himself; in the interest of State Senator Sam B. Cook of Jefferson City, who was a candidate in the last election; and in the interest of John P. Gorden, candidate for Auditor, the only candidate on the Democratic state ticket to be defeated.

$2858 Was Collected.

Fleming said that evidence taken by the committee showed that $2858 was collected by McClung from penitentiary employes, who understood they were contributing toward the expenses of the Democratic State campaign. Only $250 of the amount was sent by McClung to the committee, and State Chairman James Cowgill refused to receive that, because McClung would not give him the names of the contributors. After the investigation and after the committee had learned the names of all the contributors to the total fund collected by McClung, the committee demanded the $250. At first, Fleming said, McClung declared he would not give one cent, but later sent $200.

Fleming's statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter follows:

"When the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee met in Jefferson city early in January several members of the committee were informed that McClung had collected nearly $3000 for the State campaign and had not turned it over to the committee.

"Our principal information came from J. Patrick Murphy, formerly a clerk at the penitentiary, who had been discharged by McClung. Murphy told several members of the committee that he had contributed $25 by check, made payable to McClung, that his contribution was in response to a letter he had received from Chairman Cowgill, and that he never had received a receipt for his money.

Produced Canceled Check.

"He said he had written Cowgill for a receipt and that Cowgill had replied that he never had received a contribution from Murphy or from any other employe of the penitentiary. Murphy produced a canceled check for the amount.

"J. E. Boggs of Columbia, a member of the committee, offered a motion that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter and that McClung be invited to appear and make any explanation he cared to make. I was appointed chairman of this committee, the other members being Joseph Callaway of Nevada and Thomas E. Fisher of Marshall.

"We first heard Murphy's story and then sent for McClung. For a day and a night McClung declined to appear, but the following day came before the committee. He admitted receiving the money and gave us a list of his expenditures. A stenographer took his statement, but he requested that no record be made of a portion of it, and we granted his request.

Aided Judge's Campaign.

"This portion included a statement by him that he had used the greater part of the money in local campaigns in Cole and adjoining counties and that he had spent a portion of it in the interest of Judge J. G. Slate, who was a candidate for re-election to the circuit bench; in the interests of the candidacy of Sam B. Cook, candidate for the State Senate, and John P. Gordon, candidate for Auditor. He said they were his personal friends and he did not wish to get their names in the committee's record.

"McClung's statement was not satisfactory to the sub-committee and we so reported to Judge Cowgill and to the other members of the State Committee. Judge Cowgill asked us what we intended to do and I told him there was nothing we could do unless he desired to institute a prosecution of McClung under the criminal laws. He said he did not desire

BRITISH GIVING AMERICANS ALL THEIR NAVAL SECRETS

Secretary Daniels Denies That Inventions for Combatting Submarines Have Been Withheld.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Co-operation between the British Admiralty and Vice Admiral Sims and other American naval officers, Secretary Daniels declared today, has been complete since the outbreak of the war.

"The spirit shown at the Admiralty," Secretary Daniels said, "has been one of perfect openness and frankness and co-operation. Our officers have access to every bit of information Admiralty officials have had in relation to submarine warfare. They have opened every door to Admiral Sims and his associates."

Daniels' statement was prompted by published reports that British inventions for combating submarines had been withheld. On the contrary, he said, every device of which the British navy had knowledge had been fully explained to the American officers, and vice versa.

Both navies had worked out depth bombs as a weapon against submarines. The British had a supply available and these have been used by American destroyers, Daniels said. The American bomb, however, is an improvement in some respects over the British and is now used by both navies.

GIRL, 14, FLEES FROM HOME TO AVOID MARRYING MAN

Tony Loducca to Be Questioned by Police About Courtship Favored by Girl's Parents.

Tony Loducca, 24 years old, of 2714 Hermitage avenue, was taken to the Mounted District Police Station today to be questioned as to his courtship of Miss Valle Ruffino, 14, of 7315 Commonwealth avenue, who departed from her home Wednesday night to avoid marrying Loducca.

Since then the girl has been in hiding at the home of a neighbor and has been concealing her whereabouts from her parents, who, she says, favor the marriage, which was set for Thursday.

Loducca told the police he desired to marry the girl and offered to deed over $6000 worth of real estate to her if she would be his bride. He was arrested after trying to kidnap her last July and was paroled after being sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse.

SESSION OF CONGRESS BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Chairman Martin of the Senate Appropriations Committee in a review of the achievements of this session of Congress and of appropriations and contract authorizations for the fiscal year 1918, issued today, says the session breaks all records.

"The session," he said, "has been marked by a greater volume of legislation and the enactment of measures of more momentous import than have ever been considered in any similar period in the parliamentary history of the country.

"Total appropriations aggregate $16,901,966,815, which with the total appropriations for the second session of the Sixty-fourth Congress and the total contract authorizations for the present fiscal year makes a grand total of $21,390,730,940 in appropriations and contract authorizations for the present fiscal year."

UNIVERSITY CITY DIGS POTATOES

Eight Acres Were Planted by 27 Men Last Spring.

Twenty-seven University City men yesterday dug 100 bushels of potatoes from an eight-acre tract put under cultivation by them last spring at a cost of $400 in an effort to combat the high cost of living. A yield of 400 bushels is expected from the plot, according to Joseph A. Bardenheier, chairman of the University City Food Committee.

The potatoes will be distributed among the 27 men according to the amounts contributed by them for the cultivation of the garden. Mayor Heman of University City aided in digging up the tubers.

NEGROES TESTIFY KILLINGS PRECEDED RINGING OF BELL

Several Witnesses' Stories Would Tend to Show Peal Was Not Signal for Riot.

TRY TO PROVE ALIBI

Man on Stand for Prosecution Had Said Sound Meant "Something Would Be Doing."

The ringing of the negro church bell at Sixteenth street and Tudor avenue, East St. Louis, on the night of July 1, was the chief issue in today's testimony in behalf of the 83 negroes, on trial in the Belleville Circuit Court for the murder of Detective Sergt. Coppedge on that night. The killing of Coppedge and Detective Wodley was the occasion of the race riot of July 2, which culminated in the massacre of more than 40 negroes, and for which a large number of white men will be tried later.

Several negro witnesses, called today to testify to alibis for the defendants, were asked when they heard the bell ring, and all said it rang after the volley of shots which killed the policemen. It had previously been assumed that the bell rang before the police automobile arrived, and that it summoned the assemblage of armed negroes which the policemen found.

The prosecution has undertaken to show that the ringing of the bell was a pre-arranged signal, that it is proof of a conspiracy, and that all who answered the summons shared in the guilt of murder. The defense appeared, in the morning's questioning of witnesses, to be trying to show that the bell was rung for no definite reason, or as an alarm following the encounter with the police.

The prosecution believed its theory of a conspiracy was strengthened by the admissions obtained from a negro alibi witness, John Henry Johnson, who said on cross-examination yesterday afternoon that he had heard negroes say on the day before the killings, that there would be "something doing" when the bell rang, and that he should then "look out and keep from getting shot."

Alibis Offered for Four.

The defendants for whom the morning's witnesses offered alibis were Dee Smotherman, Fayette Parker, William Palmer and Othaniel Peoples. The testimony was that Peoples and Palmer were in bed at Peoples' house and that Smotherman and Parker were calling on the family, at the time of the shots and bell ringing. Thestimony was given Wednesday by Edward Wilson, a negro, that Smotherman and Peoples were in the crowd from which the shots were fired, and were carrying weapons.

John Henry Johnson, the witness who made the admissions yesterday afternoon, was testifying that Bud Townsend, one of the defendants, was at home on the night of July 1 at 1002 South Sixteenth street, where Johnson and Townsend lived.

Johnson said he was awakened by Alice Harris, who lived at the same house, and who is a witness for Townsend. He said he "heard the church bell ringing" as he awoke.

Bell "Meant Something Doing."

"What interest did the ringing of the bell have for you?" State's Attorney Schaumleffel asked in cross-questioning Johnson. The negro hesitated, then answered:

"I knew there was going to be something doing when the bell rang."

"What was going to be doing?"

"I knew there was going to be another riot."

"What were you supposed to do when the bell rang?"

"I was supposed to keep myself from getting shot."

"How did you learn about this?"

"I heard it on a street car. The day before (Saturday, June 30,) I heard some colored men say there would be another riot next day, and that when the church bell rang everybody wanted to look out and keep from getting shot."

Further questioning failed to bring out the names of any of the men from whom he had heard this. His references to "another riot" indicated that the negroes, at that time, had in mind the riot of May 28, in which a number of negroes were beaten, though none was killed.

Testimony on Previous Riot Barred.

At the opening of the defense's testimony yesterday afternoon Judge Crow refused to admit testimony as to the riot of May 28, the later isolated attacks on negroes, or the raid made on the negro residence district on the night of July 1 by white "joy riders," who fired into negro houses. The attorneys for the defense said they would prove that the acts of lawlessness against the negroes had placed them in a state of terror and that the armed gathering on the night of July 1 was the result of the automobile raid.

The Court said that evidence of illegal acts on the part of white persons would not justify a counter-conspiracy of negroes, and refused to permit this evidence to be presented. The Court had previously ruled that the State could introduce testimony tending to show a conspiracy among negroes to avenge themselves for former wrongs, espe-

BIG PROFIT IN COAL AT $1.50 AT MINE, SAYS M'ALLISTER

Attorney-General Asserts He Believes That Figure Would Be a Just One.

COST IS LESS THAN $1.25

Figures Giving Detailed Expenses of Production Are Shown at Hearing.

Attorney-General McAllister, who has returned from conferences with the Fuel Administrator at Washington and is attending the State coal price inquiry at the Planters' Hotel, today said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was encouraged by the showing which has been made in the investigation, especially in the figures obtained yesterday from William F. Gould, secretary of the Donk Bros. Coal and Coke Co., which showed that the cost of producing coal and placing it on cars at the mines averaged a little less than $1.23 a ton for the period from October, 1916, to July, 1917.

He declared his belief, from the information he has gathered, was that the actual cost of coal production was less than $1.20 a ton. The operators, he said, make it appear higher than that by making excessive charges for depreciation and depletion of the coal deposit.

"I believe," the Attorney-General said, "that coal can be sold at the mine at $1.50 a ton and that the operators can make a big profit at that figure. I do not want to beat them down to too small a profit. I want them to make a good profit that will encourage them to increase production, but their profits should not be exorbitant."

E. J. Wallace, secretary of the St. Louis Coal Club, who testified yesterday, was recalled and stated that he was also secretary of the Western Fuel Distributers' Association, composed of 25 or 26 jobbers, which was organized late in September.

He explained the purpose of the organization was to protect jobbers against encroachments of operators, who, it was feared, would sell to themselves as jobbers for the sake of the 15 cents a ton profit allowed to jobbers by the Government. He told of the visit of a committee to Fuel Administrator Garfield, who ruled that the jobbers were a factor and were entitled to their 15 cents a ton profit.

P. H. Greenlaw, secretary of the Fifth and Ninth Districts Bureau, wanted to know the names of some of the operating companies which had encroached upon the jobbers. Wallace named the Johnson City Coal Co. and the Rutledge & Taylor Coal Co. Greenlaw said these had been jobbers ever since they had been in business.

Commissioner Lilly adjourned the hearing indefinitely shortly before noon. Assistant Attorney-General Gose will go to Jefferson City to get ready for the opening of the session of the Supreme Court Monday. No plans for the resumption of the hearings were agreed upon.

Figures Show Coal is Produced for Less Than $1.25 a Ton.

Attorney-General McAllister's claim that coal is produced in the Illinois fields for less than $1.25 a ton at the mine was borne out yesterday afternoon at the State's hearing by testimony of William F. Gould, secretary of the Donk Bros. Coal Co., who produced cost sheets showing that his company, over a period of 10 months, produced coal at an average cost of $1.2296 a ton.

The Attorney-General has contended that coal cost to consumers in St. Louis and Missouri is too high, and on Wednesday he made a plea before Fuel Commissioner Garfield in Washington for decreased prices. The Government has allowed operators prices ranging from $1.70, for screenings, to $2.20 for prepared coals, at the mine.

The profit of Donk Bros., figured on a basis of 47 cents a ton, which would be the profit on the lowest figure allowed by the Government, presuming the output was all screenings, or poorest grade of coal, would total $682,223.33, on its production of 1,451,539 tons for the 10-month period. The figures on production were given for the period between Oct. 1, 1916, and July 1, 1917. The highest production cost was shown in June, 1917, $1.429, and the lowest in October, 1916, $1.065. In but four of the 10 months did the cost of production exceed $1.18, according to the figures produced by the witness.

Retail Price $2.62.

During this period, Gould related, the average retail price in St. Louis was $2.62 a ton at the car for those who came with wagons to get it. To consumers who had their coal delivered in wagons at their homes the price was $3.37 a ton. These figures, however, did not take into consideration contract coal.

Gould said the cost figures he produced took into consideration everything coal dealers figured in determining the cost of coal, with the exception of contingency cost. The things he enumerated as going to make up the costs, he said, were insurance of all kinds, taxes and in-

SOCIALISTS WHO OPPOSED DRAFT ARE INDICTED

Two Men Charged With Having Made Utterances Disloyal to Government.

TO BE TRIED NEXT MONTH

One Is Alleged to Have Said, "Anyone Who Goes to War Is a Fool."

Thomas Carnell, a salesman, of 2713 Caroline street, and Arno B. Pallme of 3708 Michigan avenue, Socialists, were indicted today by the Federal grand jury charged with having made disloyal utterances calculated to cause a refusal of duty, insubordination and disloyalty on the parts of others.

The indictments are the first of the kind returned in this State since the United States entered the war. The men are liable, on conviction, to penitentiary sentences of 20 years each. They will be tried next month by jury before Judge Dyer in the United Stats District Court.

The indictment against Carnell is based on statements witnesses said he made as part of a speech delivered from the steps of the Rose Fanning School, Grace and McDonald avenues, Aug. 28.

Complaints From Audience.

He was arested when making the speech, following complaints made to the police by persons in his audience of men and women residents of the neighborhood who objected to his utterances.

Several of these persons testified before the grand jury and will be used as witnesses against him at his trial. In the objectional part of his speech Carnell is alleged to have said:

"This is a war of the rich, and any man who goes to war is a fool, because even if you are in the draft and are called that is no reason why you should fight."

Carnell, who is a member of a Socialist organization to which the Board of Education had granted the privilege of using the school building for meetings, made his address from the school steps because the janitor of the building failed to arrive and open it for the meeting which was scheduled to be held.

The witnesses against Pallme were members of the Eleventh Ward Exemption board, to whom he is alleged to have made disloyal remarks when he was called before the board for examination for the draft.

Statement to Draft Officials.

When he was preparing for examination Pallme is said to have declared to the officials: "I will not fight for the United States. Any man who attempts to defend the Constitution of this country is a fool.

"I am a Socialist and we Socialists are opposed to this war and we are advising everybody to keep out of it. If they try to force us to go we will not fight."

Section 3 of the act of June 5, 1917, under which the men were indicted and will be prosecuted, provides "That whoever, when the United States is at war, shall willfully make or convey false reports or false statements with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the United States or to promote the success of its enemies, and whoever, when the United States is at war, shall willfully cause or attempt to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny or refusal of duty, in the military or naval forces of the United States, or shall willfully obstruct the recruiting or enlistment service of the United States, to the injury of the service or of the United States shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than 20 years, or both."

Other Indictments.

Indictments also were returned against Ernest Busse of 3538 Page avenue, and E. Pardick, who was arrested by agents of the United States Secret Service several weeks ago, on charges of threatening the life of the President.

Witnesses testified Busse had declared the "President ought to be shot because he was a traitor to his country," and said that if he had the chance he himself would shoot him.

Pardick was said by witnesses to have declared he would "like to put a bomb under the President and blow him to hell." "If I am drafted," he is quoted as saying, "I hope they assign me to the kitchens; then I'll be in a position to kill more English lovers than if I were in the German army."

Mato Sickic was indicted for telling several persons they would be crazy to go to war, and said: "If you follow my plan you will not go either. Anyhow, there are nothing but cowards and bums in the army." Sickic did not reveal his plan for keeping out of the army witnesses said.

39 INDICTMENTS FOR ATTEMPTS TO EVADE DRAFT

The Federal grand jury today returned indictments against 39 St Louisans, charging them with attempting to evade the draft. Thirty-six of the men are charged with

SENATE INQUIRY INTO LA FOLLETTE'S SPEECH; STONE'S CASE DROPPED

Committee Will Investigate Address Delivered at St. Paul and Report in December--Find Charges Against Missourian Warrant No Action.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A formal preliminary inquiry into the alleged disloyal speech of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, made before the Nonpartisan League at St. Paul, two weeks ago, was ordered today by the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee.

Appointment of a subcommittee of five members was directed with authority limited, first, to inquire into the correctness of reports of Senator La Follette's speech, and, second, into the correctness of his statements made therein.

The Senate committee took up petitions charging Senator Stone of Missouri, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, with disloyal statements and acts and decided that the charges made did not warrant any investigation of the Missouri Senator.

The Senate Committee's decision was reached after a two-hour session and with a speech in the Senate by Senator La Follette impending. The sub-committee was authorized to request authority to employ stenographers and make other necessary expenditures, indicating that formal hearings may be held with possible examination of witnesses at St. Paul. The resolution for authority to make the sub-committee inquiry and for its general authority was scheduled to be brought before the Senate later today and many thought it would be the basis of sharp debate in connection with La Follette's proposed reply to his critics.

The committee's action, both as to Senator La Follette and Senator Stone, was unanimous No record vote was taken.

While the course of procedure has not been definitely outlined, the sub-committee proposes to ask Senator La Follette to appear. He will be asked whether the copy of the St. Paul speech before the committees is as he delivered it. The sub-committee also proposes to call William J. Bryan to question him on Senator La Follette's statement that Bryan several times urged President Wilson to prevent the sailing of the Lusitania, because it was alleged an ammunition cargo was aboard.

All committee members emphasized that the scope of inquiry ordered is extremely limited—solely to the accuracy of Senator La Follette's St. Paul speech and the accuracy of statements therein—and is not to be regarded as a formal inquiry into anything else.

Stone Offers to Appear.

Senator La Follette refused to comment on the committee's action, but it was understood that it would not change his plans to make an address in the Senate before adjournment regarding criticisms made.

A letter from Senator Stone denouncing imputations and reflections in the petitions and other communications on file was presented to the committee and made the basis for its action as to him. Senator Stone offered to appear before the committee, but it was held that investigation was unwarranted and also that:

"The record discloses that though Senator Stone opposed the declaration of war, he has, since it was adopted, voted for all such measures considered by the Senate on which a record vote was taken."

The report as to Senator Stone was drawn by Senator Walsh of Montana.

Will Report in December.

The limited scope of the La Follette inquiry was regarded as temporary action upon the numerous petitions presented to the Senate for the Wisconsin Senator's expulsion.

The sub-committee which probably will be appointed during the day, and will be headed by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, was ordered to report at the December session of Congress.

Investigation of charges by Representative Heflin that certain members of Congress had "acted suspiciously" in connection with the war and investigation of an interview in which he is alleged to have declared that he had heard members obtained German money by being "lucky at cards," was begun today by a House Committee.

Plans for hearing Heflin as the first witness were thrown awry by Postmaster-General Burleson, who suddenly arrived at the Capitol in his carriage and took Heflin away. The committee then heard two newspaper men in executive session about the interview Heflin repudiated.

Both newspaper men swore that Heflin told them in the House lobby that he had heard that "pro-German and peace-at-any-price members of Congress" got money easily at a Washington gaming house conducted by a German by being "lucky at cards."

When assailed in the House about the interview, Heflin first denied that he had said it "on the floor." Later he repudiated it flatly.

Held Gloomy Meeting.

The committee yesterday held a gloomy meeting. It was found that the resolution provided that it should report its findings before Saturday, that Heflin desired many witnesses called from far States, and that the resolution gives no power for calling witnesses.

Representative Stephens of Mississippi presented the resolution. It provides that the committee shall investigate and then report "its recommendation to the action which should be taken by the House touching any person or persons involved in or affected by or making these statements and charges.

Representative Barnhart of Indiana is chairman of the committee, and the other members are Venable, Mississippi; Dewalt, Pennsylvania; Longworth, Ohio, and Walsh, Massachusetts.

DRUGGIST HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING FROM MAIL

Arrest of E. A. Bernius, Who Conducts Contract Postoffice, Follows Indictment.

Emil A. Bernius, proprietor of a drug store at 5345 Easton avenue, was arrested today following his indictment by the Federal grand jury on six counts charging him with stealing from registered mail.

Bernius conducts a contract postoffice in his store. The loss of registered letters which passed through Bernius' office, containing small sums of money, were reported to the Postoffice Inspector last May and an investigation was begun. Test letters were put in the mail by the authorities, and it is charged Bernius took these. They contained $81.

CITY EMPLOYES TO ESCAPE WAR INCOME TAX, COUNSELOR THINKS

Daues Believes Wording of New Law Favors St. Louis as a "Political Subdivision."

St. Louis city officials and employes will be exempt from the war income tax, in the belief of City Counselor Daues, who also thinks that the officials of most of the other large cities, including Chicago, will have to pay the tax.

The law provides that the incomes of the present President of the United States and the Federal Judges now in office shall be exempt, and grants exemption also to "all officers or employes of a state, or any political subdivision thereof."

St. Louis, not being in any county, and being practically a county itself, is probably a "political subdivision" of Missouri, within the meaning of the law, the City Counselor said. In the case of Chicago, he said, the "political subdivision" would be not the city of Chicago, but Cook County, so that the city officials and employes would be subject to the income tax. This question will probably be decided by the legal authorities of the Federal Government.

Bennett, a former State Senator, for Mayor of New York on the Republican ticket, was repudiated last night by the Republican County Committee of New York County by a vote of 843 to 223. BRITISH NOW HOLD COVETED RIDGES EAST OF YPRES

Field Marshal Haig Reports That Positions Taken With Rush in Advance on Eight-Mile Front Are of Great Importance.

Principal German Railway Now Can Be Bombarded From High Ground Five Miles From Ypres.

More Than 3000 Prisoners Taken in Operation—British Objectives Reached by Midday.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Sanguinary fighting is expected in Flanders, where the British, with comparative ease, yesterday captured positions on the coveted Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge, which are described by Field Marshal Haig as of the greatest importance. The Germans are likely to attempt heavy attacks in an effort to retake the ground. Press dispatches from the front refer to the British victory as one of the greatest since the Marne.

The official statement given out today says:

"Our new positions east of Ypres were heavily shelled by the enemy during the night, but no further counter-attacks were made. Our troops have been engaged with organizing the captured positions.

"A hostile raiding party endeavored to enter our trenches last night north of Gouzeaucourt, but was driven off with loss."

The official statement from British headquarters last night said:

"Our attack this morning was launched on a front of over eight miles, from south of Tower Hamlets to the Ypres-Staden Railway, north of Langemarck, and has been completely successful. All our objectives have been gained, positions of great importance have been won, and over 3000 German prisoners have already reached the collecting stations.

"We are now in possession of the main ridge up to a point 1000 yards north of Broodseinde.

"South of the Menin road our objectives were reached at an early hour. North of the road the English battalions carried the hamlet of Polderhoek and Polderhoek Chateau and drove the enemy from numerous farms and small woods south and east of Polygon wood. Australian troops captured Molenaarshoek and cleared the houses in Zonnebeke-Broodseinde road.

"The advance against our final objectives was attended by equal success. English troops took the village of Reutel and Noordenhoek and secured high ground overlooking Decelaere. Australian regiments captured Broodseinde and established themselves over the crest of the ridge five miles east of Ypres. On the left of our attack English troops carried the greater part of Poelcapelle village and secured the line of their objectives east of Poelcapelle church.

"The whole of our objectives had been captured before midday. Through the capture of Broodseinde the British will be able to bombard the Roulers-Menin railroad, the principal German line of communication in the Ypres sector.

French Official.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—French troops last night repulsed German surprise attacks in Champagne and in upper Alsace, the official statement from the War Office today says. There was violent artillery activity along the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun region.

German Official.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 4.—The German version of the battle in Flanders, as reported in the supplementary statement issued from headquarters last night, is as follows:

"On the battlefield in Flanders the British during today's great attack penetrated only about one kilometer deep into our defensive zone between Poelcapelle and Gheluvelt. Especially bitter fighting is still proceeding to the east of Zonnebeke and west of Becelaere."

Italian Official.

ROME, Oct. 5.—The official statement issued yesterday said:

"From Tuesday evening to yesterday afternoon fighting continued on the western slope of Monte San Gabriele. Repeated enemy attacks, delivered with the support of numerous assaulting parties, were broken up by our fire. In a raid we captured four officers and 32 soldiers who were hidden in a cave. In the Raccogleano sector a successful raid gained us 27 additional prisoners."

HUNT BEGUN FOR 2 GERMAN RAIDERS IN SOUTH SEAS

Crews of Ships Are Marooned on Desolate Island and in Need of Food.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—With definite information of the presence of two German sea raiders in the South Pacific Ocean, announced in dispatches from Samoa to the Navy Department, a hunt for the commerce destroyers has been set in motion.

The two raiders are manned by the crew of the famous See Adler, which made her way late last year from Germany through the allies' patrol into the Atlantic, southward around South America, preying on shipping, and thence to the South Pacific, where she stranded on Mopeha Island and had to be abandoned. The See Adler destroyed three American sailing ships, the schooners A. B. Johnson, Manila and C. Slade, in the South Pacific. When she stranded the See Adler had aboard 27 white men and 17 native prisoners, who, with the crew, reached shore in safety.

Part of the See Adler's crew put to sea again in a power sloop armed with machine guns, bombs and two months' supplies. Early in September the French schooner Lutece arrived at Mopeha, from Tahiti, and was seized by the remaining member's of the See Adler's crew, who put to sea Sept. 5. The prisoners were left on the island to shift for themselves.

Finally Reach Samoa.

Capt. Hador Smith of the American schooner C. Slade and three other prisoners left the island in an open boat and reached Samoa Sept. 29, where the news of the sea raiders was made known to the American naval authorities.

The number of the raiders' victims beyond the four mentioned in the dispatches from Samoa, cannot be ascertained. At least four American-owned vessels are reported overdue on the Pacific coast from South Pacific ports and their owners have abandoned hope of their safety.

British, Japanese and American warships will search the South Pacific for the two German raiders.

The See Adler, according to Capt. Smith's report, arrived at Mopeha on July 31. Two days later she stranded on the island and was abandoned as a total loss, the master and crew, with 27 white men and 17 native prisoners, making shore in safety. The company remained there until Aug. 21, when the See Adler's master, accompanied by three officers and two men, put to sea in a motor sloop, with machine guns, rifles, bombs and about two months' supplies.

The remainder of the crew stayed on the island until Sept. 5, when the French schooner Lutece, bound out of Tahiti, Society Island, arrived at Mopeha, and was seized. The schooner was equipped with machine guns rifles and bombs and the Germans immediately put to sea in her.

The See Adler's prisoners, of whom Capt. Smith was one, were left on the almost desolate island, but on Sept. 19, Smith and three others of the prisoners departed in an open boat and reached Tutuila 10 days later. Smith reported the prisoners badly in need of food and water.

The dispatch from the naval officer did not indicate the size of the raiders and nothing is known of them as one was unnamed, while the French schooner Lutece is not listed in available shipping records.

The dispatch from Tutuila as announced by the Navy Department follows:

"The master of the American schooner C. Slade, arrived in an open boat at this island with three other men, from Mopeha Island, which they left Sept. 19. The master, Hador Smith, states that his vessel was captured by the German raider, See Adler, on June 17. The schooner was destroyed by burning and the entire crew were taken aboard the raider.

Captures American Vessels.

"Smith further states that the See Adler captured, on June 14, the American schooner A. B. Johnson, and on July 8 the American schooner Manila. The Manila was destroyed by dynamite, after which the See Adler proceeded to Mopeha Island, the westward island of the Society Group, arriving there July 31. On Aug. 20 the See Adler stranded and was abandoned as a total loss. The commanding officer of the See Adler left Aug. 21 in a motor sloop with machine guns, rifles, bombs and about two months' supplies, accompanied by three officers and two men.

"On Sept. 5, the French schooner Lutece, bound out of Tahiti, Society Islands, arrived at Mopeha and was captured by the remainder of the See Adler's crew, who immediately left on the schooner with machine guns, supplies, rifles and bombs, leaving behind them 27 white men and 17 native prisoners from the See Adler, marooned on Mopeha Island. These men are in great need of food and water."

First news that the See Adler had slipped past the British cordon in the North Sea, and was preying on shipping in the Atlantic came on April 1 last, in dispatches from Janeiro, giving the names of 12 allied craft sail and steam, that she had destroyed. Word of the sinkings were carried to the Brazilian port by the French bark Cambronne, which was sent there by the See Adler with the crews of the destroyed ships.

According to some of the survivors, the See Adler's master said he left Germany on Dec. 22 and passed as a Norwegian sailing ship. The See Adler had three masts and was equipped with a powerful auxiliary engine. She carried two guns of 105 millimeters and 16 machine guns, with a crew of 64, under command of Count Ukner. The vessel also was equipped with a powerful wireless concealed in the rigging.

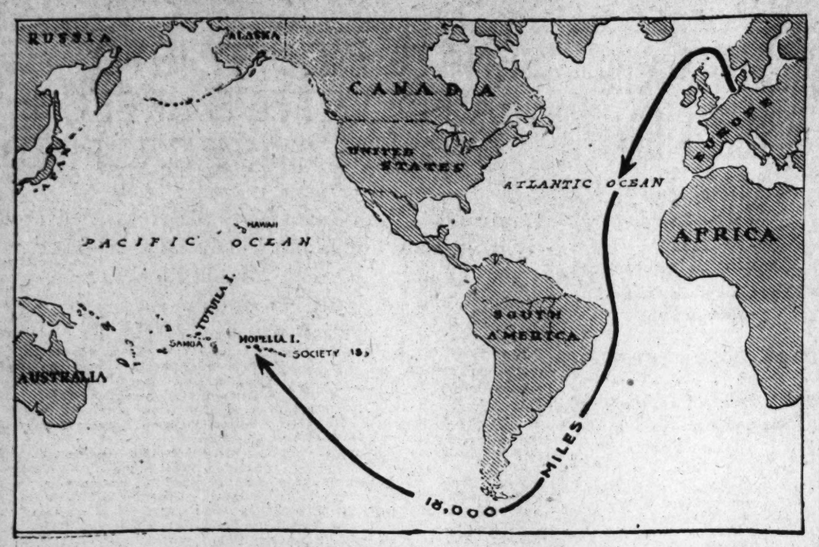

Flew Norwegian Flag.

The raider flew the Norwegian flag until close to her intended victims, when her sails were lowered, the German flag run up and fire opened with machine guns. Raiding parties boarded the ships, transferred the crews and papers and then sank the prizes with bombs.

One report among the survivors at Rio Janeiro was that the See Adler was the captured American bark Pass of Balmaha, of 1577 tons, which was taken into Cuxhaven by a German prize crew in August, 1915, while on a voyage from New York to Archangel with 5000 bales of cotton.

She was first held up by a British cruiser, which placed a prize crew on board. Subsequently, a German submarine overhauled the bark and put a prize crew on her. The Germans did not know there was a British prize crew aboard, they said, until the Englishmen were discovered in hiding. The vessel was confiscated by a German prize court because she was carrying contraband to an enemy country.

Map Showing How Raiding German Sailing Vessel Traveled 18,000 Miles Before Meeting Disaster

THE See Adler, a vessel with three masts and equipped with a powerful auxiliary engine, disguised as a Norwegian sailing vessel, slipped out of a German harbor Dec. 22 last and eluded the British patrol in the North Sea and began a career of commerce raiding in the South Atlantic. According to stories told by survivors of ships which the See Adler sank, who reached Rio de Janeiro in April, 12 vessels were destroyed by the raider. The See Adler left the South Atlantic and worked her way around to South America to the Society Islands, 18,000 miles from Germany, where she stranded. She had added three American schooners to her list of victims. The See Adler had a crew of 64 under Count Ukner. The Germans fitted out two raiders, which put to sea in August and September.

Four American Vessels Months Overdue at Pacific Ports.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Besides the R. C. Slade, the Manila and the A. B. Johnson, reported sunk by the German raider Sea Adler, four other American-owned vessels are months overdue at Pacific Coast ports. No word has been received from any of the four for more than a month, and hope that they will ever reach their destination has been abandoned.

A cablegram "all safe" was received here last Tuesday by Mrs. Smith from her husband. No mention was made of the fate of the vessel. The message was sent from Suva, Fiji Islands.

The A. B. Johnson, a four-masted schooner of 529 tons, carrying lumber, sailed from Willapa harbor for Sydney and was 143 days overdue. The Manila, a steam schooner of 647 tons, sailed from Newcastle with coal for Honolulu and was 123 days overdue.

McCLUNG'S $2858 EXPENSE ACCOUNT IS MADE PUBLIC to do that and the matter was dropped, except that I was instructed to demand of McClung the $250 he had once offered the committee, and which was refused by Judge Cowgill.

"The first time I saw McClung about that he said he would not turn it over to the committee, but subsequently, in May I think, at least it was after Treasurer Dale Flowers had filed his financial report, he sent $200 to Doc Brydon, secretary of the committee.

"Not Cowgill's Business."

"When we asked McClung why he had not sent the chairman of the State Committee a list of the penitentiary contributors, he said he didn't think it was any of Cowgill's business who the contributors were.

"In his statement to the sub-committee, McClung did not have such an understanding with the committee. I know the committee never authorized such a use of the money, and Judge Cowgill told me he never in any way had authorized such a use of it.

"I did not question Judge Slate as to whether he had received any money from McClung for his campaign, but I did see Sam Cook. Cook told me he had received nothing from McClung's collections at the penitentiary."

Fleming turned over to the Post-Dispatch correspondent a copy of the stenographic report of the investigation. In McClung's statement is included a list of all contributors among penitentiary employes. The contributor of the largest amount was Lester S. Parker, superintendent of industries at the prison, who gave $100. McClung's name is down for $60. Deputy Warden Porter Gilvin, who last week was chosen Warden, gave $50, and Oliver Bassman, the chief clerk, gave $48. There were more than 100 other contributors, mostly guards, who gave either $20 or $25, with a few contributions ranging between $30 and $40.

McClung's Statement.

The expenditure of the total of $2858, shown by McClung's statement to have been collected, was given by him to the committee as follows:

Hugh Stephens Printing Co.	$ 300.42
Postage	335.00
Stenographer hire	100.00
Cole County Committee	800.00
Walther Wymore, rent	65.00
Holmes et al., Maries County poll workers	110.00
James Clark and Morgan County poll workers	227.00
Wilson et al., Moniteau County poll workers	155.10
Organization expense, poll workers, Cole County	300.00
State committee	250.00
Carney and Miller county poll workers	195.50
Balance	19.08
Total	$2,258.00

Officers of the county committee of Cole County stated that that committee received $800 from McClung for use in the local campaign.

The portion of McClung's statement, of which a stenographic report was made, included nothing of importance in it, McClung merely stating that he had not personally collected the fund, but that it had been collected by Bassman, the chief clerk, and by Ben Stewart, the Assistant Deputy Warden.

As is known, Assistant Attorney-General Howell has under consideration the calling of witnesses in an investigation of the disposition of a fund of $2700 collected from employes of the penitentiary a year ago for the Democratic State Committee. This fund was turned over to McClung, who was then Warden of the penitentiary. The money never reached the State committee.

McClung was indicted last Saturday on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the State in the purchase of cement.

Judge Slate Declines to Comment on McClung Case.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 5.—When the Post-Dispatch correspondent asked Judge Slate for a statement today, as to whether the money collected from penitentiary employes was spent in his campaign, he said:

"I am the Judge of the court and Judges have no business talking for publication."

When asked about a report that he would disqualify himself and call in a special Judge to try the McClung case, because of McClung's statement to the State committee that he (McClung) had spent a portion of the prison contributions to re-elect Slate, the Judge said:

"I shall be the judge of whether I will disqualify myself when the case comes up for trial."

BRITISH CRUISER DRAKE IS TORPEDOED AND SUNK

Flagship of Squadron Which Attended the Hudson-Fulton Celebration in 1909.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The British cruiser Drake has been torpedoed and sunk, according to an admiralty announcement. The Drake was torpedoed Tuesday morning off the north coast of Ireland. She reached a harbor, but then sank in shallow water.

One officer and 18 men were killed by the explosion. The remainder of the ship's company was saved.

The Drake, 14,100 tons, was built at Pembroke in 1901, and had a speed of 23 knots. Her complement was 900 men. A sister ship of the Drake, the Good Hope, was sunk in the battle with the German fleet off Coronel, Chile, in 1914, with a loss of 387 men. The Drake was well known in the Eastern American waters, having visited the United States and Canadian ports several times. She was the flagship of the fifth cruiser squadron, which attended the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York in 1909.

BIG PROFIT IN COAL AT $1.50 AT MINE SAYS McALLISTER

terest, the cost of selling and of depreciation and depletion.

Gould thought a contingency cost should be allowed, to be made to take care of the many unforeseen things that might happen in the mine to render the whole investment worthless. Assistant Attorney-General Gose argued that such a charge, made from year to year, when contingencies did not arise, was not a proper one to charge up against the consumers of coal.

The witness admitted, upon interrogation by Gose, that coal which sold in October, 1916, at $3.62½ a ton increased in price to $5.62½ on May 14, 1917. This coal, he admitted, continued at that price until June 15, 1917, when it dropped to $5.37½, where it remained until Sept. 1, when it dropped to $4.75, after the Government had fixed prices for operators. Gould explained these prices were only for the high-grade coal.

Figures Show Lost Cost.

John B. Henderson, president of the West Virginia Coal Co. of Missouri, a stockholder in many producing companies, showed figures where the cost of mining at one time was less than a dollar a ton. His figures for the St. Ellen Coal Co. showed a high cost of $1.256 a ton in the period between November, 1916, and June, 1917. The lowest cost was shown in February, when his mining cost was $.937 a ton. His average cost for 265,390 tons was $1.092 a ton.

W. J. Jenkins, president of the Union Fuel Co., gave testimony showing what it cost retail coal men to handle the coal from the mine to the consumer. He said the freight on most of the coal brought to St. Louis was 72½ cents a ton, the average overhead expense of retailers was 48 cents a ton and the cost of delivery was 90 cents a ton, making a total cost, added to the cost at the mine of $1.23, of $3.34 a ton.

cially the attacks made on them May 28.

By the Court's ruling, the defense was restricted to individual alibis, and it had a number of these in readiness. The first alibis offered were those of Bud Townsend and Alfred Hughes, the latter living at 1423 Piggott avenue. In both cases it was testified that the men were at home.

The State rested its case after it had failed to establish the individual ownership of 22 rifles and shotguns, which were laid on a table before the jury. Detective Haeffner, who was expected to testify as to the ownership of the weapons, was excluded from testifying on the ground that his name had not appeared on the indictments or on the supplemental list of witnesses furnished to the defense. Former Chief of Detectives Stocker, who was then called, said the weapons had been taken from negroes, but could not identify individuals.

FIRST BARRAGE FIRED BY AMERICANS IN FRANCE

Artillery Begins New Phase of Training—Cold Weather Hits Zone and Extra Clothing Is Issued.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—The first American barrage has been fired in France. The artillery, which until recently has been practicing straight shooting exclusively, has commenced learning the principal gunfire development of the war.

This is the direction of a constant fire on a given line, making a dead line through which it is virtually impossible for infantry to pass, and later the rolling and creeping barrages. The learning of these requires practice in timing to synchronize the fire and the infantry advance.

Today, the first fore taste of the French winter, of which formidable tales are in circulation, reached the American zone. The recent beautiful sunny weather has given way to clouds and cold and rain. The quartermaster immediately issued a large supply of winter clothing, besides extra uniforms and blankets, which are most welcome to the soldiers.

Ambassador Sharp, visiting the camp, spent much time watching the training of the machine gun units. He inspected the billets and addressed the men in a Y. M. C. A. hut, where his sons are working.

On leaving the camp, Ambassador Sharp said:

"As I watched our splendid young soldiers at their drill, cheerful and determined, I could have no doubt of their victory with the united nation behind them. In the faces of these splendid soldiers I saw the spirit of resolute America."

BOLO INQUIRY ENDED; FRANCE TO GET EVIDENCE

New York Attorney-General to Furnish Conspiracy Report to Embassy Today.

HAD A PEACE OFFER

Spy Represented That Germany Was Ready to Conclude Separate Treaty With France.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The full details of the sensational conspiracy whereby Paul Bolo Pasha, under arrest in Paris as a spy, obtained the transfer through well-known and unsuspecting banking houses in New York of a German peace propaganda fund of $1,700,000 to France will be delivered to the French embassy today by Attorney-General Merton E. Lewis of New York State. Lewis announced last night that his investigation had been completed.

The official copy of the report will be sent to France soon, it was said, to be used as the chief evidence against Bolo Pasha when he is placed on trial for his life.

The Attorney-General's report is said to reveal Bolo Pasha as the brother of a French Archbishop and a man whose loyalty to France was so unquestioned that international banking houses literally bid for his patronage. The Foreign Office at Berlin is said to have ordered the payments that were made to Bolo. The German Government's code name for Count von Bernstorff who supervised the plot was "Charles Gladhill," according to the disclosures revealed in the investigation.

Payments Upon Orders.

All payments here for the benefit of Bolo were made on receipt of orders in messages from the Berlin Foreign Office which concealed its identity under the name "William Fuxley."

Attorney-General Lewis characterized the plot as a "gigantic financial camouflage, and he expressed surprise that the conspiracy escaped detection.

Hugo Schmidt, described as alternate director of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, and Adolph Pavenstedt formerly of the banking firm of G. Amsinck & Co. of New York were the principal agents of Bolo in this country aside from former Ambassador Bernstorff. They, according to their own testimony, are the men through whom the fraud was carried out. At a formal hearing yesterday, however, both declared to the Attorney-General that they were innocent of wrongdoing.

Pavenstedt, for many years a social intimate of Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador, testified that Bolo Pasha told him he understood Germany was prepared to make peace on the following grounds:

"1. Germany to cede France a part of Alsace and Lorraine. 2. France to give Germany some of the French colonies. 3. German troops to evacuate Northern France."

Using this purported willingness of Germany to make peace, Bolo Pasha induced Pavenstedt to believe that he had come to America as a French patriot to influence French public opinion in favor of peace through the purchase by French pacificists of various newspapers.

Aim to Buy French Papers.

Testimony adduced through Pavenstedt and Schmidt disclosed that Bolo Pasha's real purpose was to obtain the French journals on behalf of Germany. This was to be accomplished through the transfer of German gold from Berlin to Paris. This money could not go direct, and to send it by way of Switzerland was considered dangerous. Bolo Pasha, therefore, came to New York, got in touch with Count von Bernstorff and then approximately $1,700,000 was sent from Berlin to New York and thence through devious channels to Paris.

There is no evidence to show, Lewis said, that any of this fund was used in an effort to corrupt American journalists. Apparently, Bolo's only purpose in coming to this country was to arrange a channel for getting money from Germany to France through the aid of Von Bernstorff.

There is evidence that Bolo Pasha endeavored to obtain American capital to finance the purchase of French newspapers, Lewis said, but on terms so preposterous that the only American financier with whom he was in communication would not consent to them. This purported effort to attract American money is believed by the investigators to have been "financial camouflage" to conceal his real purpose.

According to testimony, Bolo was so elated by success in his transfer of German gold to Paris that he decided to celebrate. He arranged a dinner at a Fifth avenue restaurant, and among his guests, witnesses before Lewis said, were Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Owen Johnson, wife of the novelist, Jules Bois, Pavenstedt and Ernest Charles Pignatel, who was in charge of the commercial credit department of the Royal Bank of Canada, and who was a witness before Lewis. The Attorney-General said no testimony had been given which associated Hearst with Bolo Pasha except in a social way, and that no witnesses would be examineed in this connection.

Calls Bolo "Sly Fox."

Pavenstedt testified yesterday that Bolo Pasha, whom he described as a "sly fox," came to him with Germany's purported peace suggestions in February, 1916. The witness said he did not suppose the Frenchman had been in official touch with Germany, but believed his ideas were largely conjectures.

After a series of conferences, Pavenstedt testified, he finally told Bolo the only person he knew who might furnish the money was Count von Bernstorff. Bolo did not seem surprised, Pavenstedt said, but shrugged his shoulders and said he "did not care to know the source" of the funds. Pavenstedt told the Attorney-General that later he came to believe that Bolo Pasha's purpose all along had been to lead Pavenstedt himself to suggest Von Bernstorff's name and that the entire scheme was one prearranged with the knowledge of Bolo Pasha, Bernstorff and the German Foreign Office.

Pavenstedt testified he went to Washington and saw the Ambassador. He refrained, he said, from disclosing to Von Bernstorff the identity of the person who wanted the money, except to tell the Ambassador that he was a partner of Senator Humbert, owner of Le Journal in Paris.

Von Bernstorff said he would consider the matter, Pavenstedt said and several days later sent him word that he was at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York. Pavenstedt went to the hotel. Schmidt, the Deutsche Bank's director, was present. Von Bernstorff, the witness declared, said that he had decided to furnish the funds. Schmidt testified that Von Bernstorff instructed him at this meeting that he was to make such disposition of moneys as Pavenstedt might direct and that at Von Bernstorff's direction he sent a wireless message to the Deutsche Bank at Berlin asking it to communicate with the German Foreign Office and inform him whether money had been placed at Schmidt's disposal here to Von Bernstorff's account. Schmidt received an affirmative reply, according to copies of messages exchanged between himself and the Deutsche Bank in Berlin. These messages transmitted by way of Saville, disclose that Schmidt placed at Von Bernstorff's disposal sums totaling $1,683,500.

Schmidt's testimony was held by Lewis to support the belief of Pavenstedt that the whole scheme was prearranged by Bolo, Von Bernstorff and the German Foreign Office.

Bolo Pasha Questioned by Captain of Military Court.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Bolo Pasha has been interrogated in his cell in the Fresnes prison infirmary by Capt. Bouchardon of the Paris Military Court in the presence of his lawyer, Jacques Bonzon. The newspaper reports of the interrogation are studded with large blank spaces, the censorship having forbidden the publication of the details of the proceedings and the text of cablegrams and letters connected with the case.

Paul Poncet, Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, announces that he will interpellate the Government on what steps it intends to take "with regard to the newspapers which received subsidies from Bolo."

200 Engineer Officers in Training.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 5.—A new class of 200 reserve engineer officers arrived here yesterday to take three months' training under the instruction of Col. C. F. Flagler. Of this number about a third have been commissioned as Captains, a third First and the others Second Lieutenants. All are engineers selected from civil life.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

Hearst Knew Bolo Only in Social Way

Publisher Says Visitor Sought Him to Discuss Print Paper---Never Met Captains Von Papin or Boy-Ed.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 5.—"The statements and innuendoes of the Attorney-General of New York in regard to myself and Bolo Pasha are not true," William Randolph Hearst said in a written statement yesterday, "and I challenge him to substantiate his utterances.

"I met Bolo Pasha as a French newspaper man, the reputed representative of the Paris Journal.

"He came to me and said: 'You use more print paper than any other man in the United States. Will you tell me where to get it best and cheapest? Print paper is almost unobtainable in Paris.'

"I told him where we got our print paper and what we paid for it, and gave him all the information about the paper market that I could.

"Bolo Pasha seemed wholly loyal to his own land and I had no reason to suppose that he was not.

"He was very polite and appreciative, like all well-mannered Frenchmen, and invited me to a dinner which he gave to a number of ladies as well as gentlemen in the public dining room at Sherry's.

"The conversation was general and trivial, as it is at all such social dinners.

"That is all that I have ever known or seen or heard of Bolo Pasha.

"I have never met Von Papen or Capt. Boy-Ed in my life, and Attorney-General Lewis' implications to that effect are unfounded.

"I defy the Attorney-General to disprove any word in this statement of mine, or to substantiate any one of his own unwarranted implications, except his one truthful statement that my acquaintance with Bolo Pasha was 'purely social.'

"Should he fail to do so, I shall proceed against the small Attorney-General of the great State of New York for petty and premeditated slander made in conspiracy with rival newspapers in the interest of his already defeated candidate for Mayor."

MEASURE TO MAKE PERSHING A GENERAL NOW UP TO HOUSE

Senate Passes Administration Bill Providing for Commander's Promotion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Two Generals and a number of Lieutenant-Generals for the army are authorized in an administration measure added to the soldiers and sailors' insurance bill yesterday, just before it passed the Senate. There was virtually no opposition and the House is expected to accept the provision without objection.

Major-General Pershing, commanding the expeditionary forces in France, and Major-General Gliss, Chief of Staff, will be made Generals, and the lieutenant-generalships will go to army corps commanders and to high staff officers. The titles are for the positions in the war army and will not mean permanent advancement in grade for the officers holding them.

Secretary Baker sent the bill to the Senate with an urgent request that it be passed before adjournment of Congress.

Senator McCumber objected to the Pershing amendment, saying the promotion of Gen. Pershing was a social matter. He declared that Gen. Pershing now ranked ahead of the Kaiser in the eyes and minds of the American people. "The purpose of this proposition," said he, "is to secure for the United States officer the social rank of the French and English officers."

Naval Camp Regulations Pass Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—All rules pertaining to the regulations of army cantonment camps and vicinity in order to protect the soldiers from vice, were extended to naval training camps in a bill adopted today by the Senate. The Senate also passed bills authorizing the paying of gratuity to the widows or children of retired naval officers or enlisted men losing their lives while on active duty in the present war, and the compensating of sailors for property lost while in service. The bills have already been passed by the House and now go to the President.

'WIRES PULLED' TO BLOCK EXPOSE OF PRISON SCANDAL

Attempt Made to Have Reporter Active in Baring Irregularities Drafted Into Army.

GOVERNOR APPROACHED

In Effort to Save D. C. McClung and Prevent Indictment of Those "Higher Up."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 5.—The Kansas City Star today prints the following dispatch from Jefferson City:

"Every method of 'wire pulling' with which politicians are familiar has been attempted in an effort to block a complete exposure of the Missouri State Penitentiary scandals. The effort to save D. C. McClung, former Warden, from indictments at the hands of the Cole County grand jury having failed, desperate attempts to save him from punishment and to prevent the indictment of other men 'higher up' now are being made.

So great has been the pressure to force an abandonment of the prison investigation that Attorney-General McAllister, an experienced politician, has felt the pinch of powerful influence, but he has refused to yield to it.

"In the midst of the recent fight to adjourn the grand jury he made a public statement, in which he said: 'Never in the history of Missouri has so much pressure been brought to bear as has been exerted to retard and interfere with the investigation of the penitentiary.'

Appeal Made to Governor.

"Unable to work through the Attorney-General the interests back of the attempt to halt the investigation into State scandals apparently tried to work through Gov. Gardner. These also failed as utterly as with McAllister.

"It had been known pressure was being brought to bear on Gardner to keep him from removing from office all appointive State officials and employes who got State coal and also to force him to have the prison inquiry stopped.

"Before McClung was indicted, but after the grand jury was in session, N. G. Sevier, Cole County Prosecuting Attorney, told the Governor an effort had been made to have the grand jury investigate Col. Gardner's campaign expense account under the corrupt practices act. Sevier told the Governor that a Republican attorney sought to have him subpena Omar Gray, who managed the Gardner campaign. Gray is now State Coal Oil Inspector. Sevier said to Mr. Gardner that he did not know what the motive for the effort was, but that he felt the Governor should know about it.

Would Get Rid of Newspaper Man.

"Sevier did not subpena Gray, and so far as is known the attempt to coerce Col. Gardner was dropped at that point. But that did not mean the interests which would block a complete clean-up in the State capitol had quit fighting. Today it became known an attempt was being made to 'railroad' a newspaper man into the army because of his activities in publishing stories about the penitentiary mismanagement.

"This newspaper man, Heber Nations of St. Louis, staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, is the father of three children, 2, 4 and 6 years of age. He is 29 years old and served as an officer on the Mexican border with a Missouri regiment. While he was in service his home was broken up and he obtained a divorce and was given the custody of his children.

"When war was declared he re-enlisted as a private and later was commissioned a First Lieutenant. His mother, who was caring for his children, became dangerously ill, and Nations had to take his children home. That forced him to resign from the army. Meanwhile Nations was distasteful to the political 'ring.'

Wants Nations Drafted.

"Then the Republican attorney referred to before, who represents several of the men recently indicted, asked for a conference with Claude Long, an officer of the Cole County Exemption Board, urged him to have Nations' resignation transferred here from St. Francois County, then to have the local board draft him for service. Long is a Democratic politician and was formerly head of the automobile department under Cornelius Roach.

"Telling of the attorney's request to send the newspaper reporter to the army, Long said: 'He asked me to have Mr. Nations transferred from St. Francois to Cole County and drafted for service. He told me I would know how to arrange that. When I suggested it might not be possible to do that without Nations' consent, he told me to write a letter to the St. Francois County board and tell them Nations had his children up here simply as a ruse and that he would return them to his mother when the draft was out of the way. He said he and others were working on the proposition. He said to me: "You know this fellow Nations is nothing but a trouble-maker and we will never have any peace until we get him away from here. This is the best way to do it.'

"'I told him to come and see me again in a day or two and report how he had progressed.'"

POSTMASTERS INSTRUCTED ON NEW WAR TAX MAIL RATES

After Nov. 2 Intercity Letters Pay 3 Cents an Ounce and Post Cards Require Two-Cent Stamp.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Detailed instructions to Postmasters on the increased letter mail rates which become effective Nov. 2, under the war tax bill, were issued today by Postmaster-General Burleson. They do not apply to rates to most foreign countries which are fixed by international treaties, but they do apply to all domestic mail and under that classification is included mail to Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Panama, the United States postal agency at Shanghai and all persons in the military service of the United States in Europe.

The Postoffice Department issued these instructions:

"Postmasters shall on and after Nov. 2 see that postage is paid at the rate of 3 cents an ounce or fraction thereof on letters and other first-class matter except drop letters. All drop letters, that is, letters mailed for delivery from the office at which posted including those for delivery by city, rural or other carrier of such office, are required to have postage paid on them at the rate of 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof.

"Postal cards are required to be prepaid 2 cents and therefore the 1-cent postal cards must have a 1-cent postage stamp affixed to them in addition to 1 cent stamp impressed on such cards. Postcards (private mailing cards) bearing written messages must have 2 cents postage prepaid on them."

During the first nine months of 1917 the Post-Dispatch printed 15,850 Horses and Vehicles Want Ads—8832 more than the THREE nearest St. Louis newspapers combined.

HOOKE SUBMITS BILL FOR FREE BRIDGE LOOP

Presents Proposal for Interurban Tracks Downtown to Board of Public Service.

Public Utilities Director Hooke today submitted to the Board of Public Service proopsals for the construction of a donwtown interurban loop to connect with the free bridge. The companies asking for the privilege of crossing the bridge and using the loop are the St. Louis & East St. Louis Interurban Railway Co. and the St. Louis & East St. Louis Electric Railway.

Hooke proposes that the loop extend from the west approach of the bridge north to Seventh and Walnut streets, east to Sixth street, north to Chestnut street, west to Seventh street and back to the bridge.

The cost of constructing this loop, he estimates, would be $150,000. He leaves it to the Board of Public Service as to what compensation the interurban company shall pay. One suggestion is that it pay the cost of maintaining the electric bridge roadway and the loop. This, he estimates, would be about $25,000 a year.

Another plan of compensation is to charge the company one cent on each 5-cent fare collected and 75 cents toll on each express or freight car crossing the bridge on its lines.

Hooke, in his report, says it would not be advisable to extend the loop north of Chestnut street or west of Seventh street as this would interfere with the operation of existing United Railways lines.

Hooke also submitted a proposal for a loop extending north on Seventh street to Walnut street, east to Sixth street, north to Lucas avenue, west to Seventh street and back to the bridge, at an estimated cost of $250,000. This plan, he said, did not meet with his approval, as it would be costly and interfere with city lines now in use.

The compensation clause in each proposed ordinance provides that if payment is made by the street car company on the basis of cost of maintenance, the company shall make an annual payment to the city equal to 5 per cent of the cost of the loop and shall contribute to a renewal fund an amount equal to 12 per cent of the cost of the loop.

Hooke estimates that for several years after the system is put in effect there will be a maintenance cost of about $5000 a year to the city, as the company's revenue will not be sufficient to pay the interest requirements.

After receiving the report the Board of Public Service voted to defer action on it.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

ACCUSED OF SAYING HE WAS FIGHTING DRAFT ENFORCEMENT

Man Also Declared to Have Termed President "No Good"—Held by Federal Authorities.

William T. Gallagher, 27 years old, of 1329 Graham street, was turned over to Department of Justice officials today, following his arrest on information that he had made seditious remarks about President Wilson and the administration.

Mrs. Caroline Cody, proprietor of a dry goods store at 6313 Clayton avenue, and several of her women customers told policemen they had heard Gallagher on several occasions say President Wilson was "no good." They also declared he told them he was "working tooth and toenail against the enforcement of the draft law." Mrs. Cody quoted Gallagher as saying the United States entered the war because Mrs. Wilson had property interests in England.

Mrs. Alive Lagarace of 1309 Graham street said Gallagher told her he was a member of the I. W. W. and that he would "show Wilson." J. M. Fulkerson, proprietor of a hall at 6286 Clayton avenue, told the police Gallagher attempted to hire the hall for a meeting. He said he was told it was to be a meeting in the interest of the I. W. W.

Gallagher, when arrested, denied he was a member of the I. W. W. and said he intended to discuss socialism at the meeting. He told policemen he formerly was a railroad office stenographer at Fort Worth, Tex.

WISSEMANN KILLED GUYNEMER

Lieutenant Since Has Been Killed, Says Cologne Gazette.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—According to the Cologne Gazette, it was Flight Lieut. Wissemann, who since himself has been killed, who shot down Capt. Guynemer, the French aviator. In his last letter to his parents, Wissemann, according to the newspaper, told them not to be anxious for him for he never would have a more dangerous enemy than Guynemer.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The death of Capt. George Guynemer, the famous French aviator, now has been confirmed definitely. Information received by the Red Cross says Guynemer was shot through the head north of Poelcapelle, on the Ypres front. He was identified by a photograph on his pilot's license found in his pocket. The aviator was buried with military honors in the Poelcapelle Cemetery.

U-Boat Appropriation Withdrawn.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 5.—The semi-official news agency states that as the American Government in the present circumstances is not permitting construction of the submarines ordered for the Dutch colonial navy the Dutch Government has withdrawn the appropriation therefor, while efforts are being made to have them constructed elsewhere abroad.

HARRY BUCKLEY IS PLANNING THEATERS FOR CAMP FUNSTON

Former Manager of the Columbia Outlining System for Conducting of Government Establishments.

Harry D. Buckley, who was manager of the Columbia Theater before he departed for Camp Funston two weeks ago as a member of the new national army from the Sixth Ward, is now at work at the cantonment in the formulation of plans for conducting the two or three theaters which the Government proposes to establish at Camp Funston.

Shortly after Buckley's arrival at the camp, the officer in charge of camp activities learned of his theatrical experience and immediately communicated with him. Prior to that Buckley had been learning the manual of arms, and had been made a temporary corporal of F Company, 354th Infantry. Major-General Leonard Wood will try to get Buckley a commission as a Lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps.

BRYN MAWR HAZING PARTY ENDS IN FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT

BRYAN MAWR, Pa., Oct. 5.—Several students were beaten severely in a free-for-all fight which followed an attempt to haze members of the freshmen class by a group of Bryan Mawr College sophomores yesterday. None of the women combatants was hurt seriously.

The cries of the girls, who were pulling each others' hair and rolling around in the street, attracted reinforcements to both classes. Freshmen in automobiles overpowered the sophomores and rescued their classmates. Before the police arrived the sophomores also managed to gain their motor cars and ecape.

Hazing has been a feature of the opening of the school of which Miss Helen Taft, daughter of former President Taft, is dean.

LIBERTY BOND SALE IS GOING FORWARD WITH A RUSH HERE

Subscriptions Coming in Much More Rapidly Than in Early Stages of First Campaign.

The second Liberty Bond campaign is going forward with a rush. At some of the banks the subscriptions are coming in so fast that it has been found necessary to put on additional clerks. At some the subscriptions are twice and three times as many as had been received at the same stage of the first campaign.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co., between 9 and 11 o'clock today, reported that it obtained 80 subscriptions, totaling $270,000.

The Mercantile Trust Co. reported yesterday one subscription of $50,000 and three of $25,000 each. The Central National Bank reported one subscription of $25,000. The National Bank of Commerce has sold to date $250,000. The German Savings Institution has sold $100,000 to one client and a total of $125,550. The Third National Bank has sold $70,000. The Boatmen's Bank reported one sale of $250,000 and smaller subscriptions aggregating $60,000.

The American Credit and Indemnity Co. has placed a subscription through the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. for $25,000.

Three Payment Plans.

The Mercantile Trust Co. has issued an attractive patriotic circular, "Three ways to pay you Liberty Loan Bonds." This circular gives instructions to the public in a concise, direct manner, and on the opposite page are three blank subscriptions—No. 1, cash payment; No. 2, four-payment plan; No. 3, weekly payment plan. These circulars are distributed in a house-to-house canvas by the trust company.

J. G. Hughes, vice president of the State Exchange Bank of Macon and chairman of the Bankers' Liberty Loan organization of Missouri, has returned from a tour of Macon, Adrian and Marion Counties. He reported that Adrian County started its allotment of $286,500 with a single subscription of $75,000. Marion County with a single subscription of $100,000.

"The farmers are keenly interested in the Liberty Bond," said Hughes, "and the banks are making arrangements for them to buy on the time payment plan. School district meetings are being held throughout Missouri, and able speakers are explaining to the farmers the Liberty Loan Bond and the vital importance of supporting it."

Former Gov. Richard Yates of Illinois will speak jointly with United States Subtreasurer Vandiver at the monthly meeting of the Tower Grove Improvement Association, Kleekamp Hall, Grand avenue and Arsenal street, next Monday.

What Is Expected Here.

The Treasury Department expects the St. Louis Federal Reserve District to furnish Second Liberty Loan subscriptions aggregating not less than $120,000,000 and urges this district to secure subscriptions aggregating as much as $200,000,000. In other words, $120,000,000 is the district's share of the $3,000,000,000 minimum for the United States, and if the total reaches $200,000,000 the district will only be contributing its portion of the $5,000,000,000 subscriptions which the Government expects will undoubtedly be received. Following the instructions of the Treasury Department, the Liberty Loan Organization of the St. Louis Federal Reserve District has redistributed the district's quota among the various counties, basing this distribution on the banking resources of each county.

PSEUDO ARMY CAPTAINS ARE INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

Alfred E. Wood and George C. Hann Cashed Bogus Checks Here for Large Sums.

Alfred E. Wood and George C. Hann, both of whom posed as army officers while stopping at the Jefferson Hotel at different times, were indicted today by the Federal grand jury.

Wood was arraigned immediately, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Hann was arrested in New Orleans after United States Secret Service agents had pursued him across the country. He posed here as a Captain in the Quartermaster's Department.

He deposited bogus drafts for large amounts at the National Bank of Commerce, and the Mechanics-American Bank and almost immediately drew checks against the account, cashing one for $419.75 at the former bank, and one for $278 at the latter bank. Then he left. Secret Service agents say he was in the city only four hours.

Wood cashed a bogus check at the Jefferson, where he registered as "Capt. A. H. Mallory." He wore an officer's uniform. After his arrest it was learned he had taken a diamond ring valued at $800 from Mrs. Alvina Bright, 4049A Olive street, which he had pawned in Toledo, O. The ring was recovered. Both will be arraigned for trial next month.

ANOTHER FARMERS' MARKET

City Officials to Attend Opening on South Jefferson Avenue.

Mayor Kiel and other city officials have been invited to attend the opening of the farmers' market on Jefferson avenue, south of Park avenue, at 9:30 tomorrow morning. Exercises will be conducted in Barr Branch Library at Jefferson and Park avenues. President Hatzfeld of the South Jefferson Avenue Business Men's Association, which promoted the market, announces that more than 100 farmers have asked for "stands."

TRADE COMMISSION INQUIRY OF COAL PRICES UNDER WAY

Action Follows Advances by Dealers After Garfield Announced Profit Margins to Be Allowed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The raising of coal prices in some cities following the order Oct. 1 by Dr. H. A. Garfield, the fuel administrator, fixing a limit on profits, is under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission. The commission's agents, it was said, will report within a few days on the situation in New York, where prices went up 50 cents a ton.

Publication of the order in the official bulletin, Dr. Garfield said, constituted notice to dealers that the margins have been fixed. Any violations of the order, he said, will be dealt with severely. It was explained that the profits of jobbers are limited to 15 cents a short ton for the bituminous trade, and 20 cents for the anthracite trade. It was reported erroneously recently that the jobbers' margin was 25 cents a ton.

Dr. Garfield told operators of the central competitive field that wage differences must be settled before he could take up their request for a revision upward of coal prices. The fuel administration will not grant coal price increases, Dr. Garfield said, to be divided between the operators and miners.

DEALER SENTENCED ON CHARGE OF RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

Six Months in Workhouse and $50 Fine Assessed Against Man; Parole Denied.

In the Court of Criminal Correction, yesterday, Philip Derlachter, a secondhand dealer at 1527 Market street, was sentenced to six months in the workhouse and to pay a fine of $50, following his trial on a charge of receiving stolen property. He made application to Judge Miller for a parole, but it was refused.

A conviction on a charge of receiving stolen property is difficult to obtain, detectives pointed out, as the defendant usually makes the plea that he did not know the goods were stolen. Derlachter was arrested following a series of thefts by employes of the Simmons Hardware Co., who said that they had sold some of the stolen goods to him.

JAMES GREEN WILL SUSTAINED

Two Contestants Drop Suit and Receive Substantial Sums.

The will contest involving the $1,500,000 estate of James Green, former chairman of the Board of the Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co., ended yesterday in Judge Grimm's court, following the announcement that a settlement had been made out of court with Laura and Marian Littebrant, children of a deceased daughter of Green by his first wife. It was necessary, for the disposition of the case, to have a jury bring in a verdict sustaining the will.

Green left $20,000 to each of the Littlebrant girls and the bulk of the estate to the three children of second marriage, John L. Green, Mrs. Walter D. Thompson and Grace Green. Under the settlement the contestants are to receive a substantial sum.

I. W. W. MAN INDICTED FOR NOT REGISTERING

Admits Purposely Failing to Record His Name, Being a "Conscientious Objector."

Frank A. Feldman of Sebree, Ky., a member of the I. W. W., was indicted here today by the Federal grand jury for failure to register for the draft. Feldman, who was in St. Louis and was stopping at a Sixth street lodging house on June 5, admits purposely having failed to register and declares he is a conscientious objector to the draft.

He was arrested by agents of the Department of Justice in Milwaukee, Aug. 8, and brought here. Details of his connection with the I. W. W., which were withheld at the time of his arrest, were made public today by Assistant United States District Attorney Woodward.

Federal authorities are in possession of papers and books Feldman dropped from a window in the Milwaukee jail and from the train, on which he was brought to St. Louis, in an attempt to get into communication with Senator La Follette and with officials of the Peoples' Council of Defence.

While in the Milwaukee jail Feldman dropped from his cell window a small book containing the Gospel of St. John on the fly leaf of which he had written "Whoever finds this please notify Senator La Follette that I, Frank A. Feldman, have been kidnaped by Federal sleuths and am denied communication." Beneath his name and address in the book Feldman wrote "member of I. W. W."

In a letter addressed to the People's Council of Defense Feldman wrote that he had been arrested because he was a conscientious objector and asked the help of the organization. This letter was stamped and dropped from a train. Other letters he attempted to get to these sources also were stopped by the authorities.

Feldman wrote of his arrest in a letter addressed to "Fellow Members of the I. W. W." and asked the organization to try and procure a jury trial for him so that he could "match his wits with the court."

"I have never been afraid to live," he wrote, "and I will not be afraid to die. They may assassinate me, they will not intimidate me. I am an ardent and fearless champion of the One Big Union.

"Yours for the O. B. U.,
"FRANK A. FELDMAN."

Feldman's movements here were watched for several weeks because of his connection with the I. W. W.

CROWDS AT STATION

Delegations Which Departed Last Night and This Morning Get Big Farewells.

The movenient of St. Louis' second 40 per cent quota of drafted men will be completed tonight when 344 registrants will depart for Camp Funston. This morning 123 men were forwarded to the cantonment. By tomorrow noon 1300 St. Louisans will have been added to the 2000 already under training at Fort Riley.

The men who departed this morning were from the Twentieth, Twenty-first and Twenty-third Wards. About 250 friends and relatives were at the Midway to see group off. The Twentieth Ward contingent, which included John ("Bull" Brannigan, noted soccer player, carried banners reading "Good-by Cass Avenue, Hello France," and "Bull Brannigan Will Get the Kaiser."

The Twenty-third Ward quota was accompanied to the station by former Mayor Kreismann, who is chairman of the local exemption board.

426 Departed Last Night.

The men who departed last night were from the Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth Wards. Three of the groups were taken to the station in special cars and a crowd of more than 1000 were present to bid farewell to the 426 drafted men.

Tonight the following wards will send away men: First, 19; Second, 32; Third, 47; Fourth, 77; Fifth, 28; Sixth, none (only negro registrants left); Seventh, 44; Eighth, 42 and Ninth, 53.

The contingent from the Seventh Ward will be accompanied to the station by a drum corps and a parade arranged by the Democratic club of that district. The parade will form at Broadway and Chouteau at 7:30 p. m. and will march west to Eighteenth street to the Draft Board headquarters and thence to Union Station.

The drafted men from Kirkwood departed last night and the Ferguson contingent will leave today.

Fred L. English, an attorney, was sworn in as a member of the District Appeals Board today in place of Samuel Rosenfeld, who has been appointed a Circuit Judge.

An exemption granted by the Twenty-fifth Ward board to Oscar F. He will have to report to the mobilization camp on Oct. 17.

Two Men Arrested for Failure to Report for Draft Examination.

Charles Dinham, 27 years old, of 2636 Madison street, and Antonio Lorenzo, 28, of 818 Franklin avenue, were arrested last night for having failed to report for examination at the head quarters of the exemption boards in their respective districts when ordered to do so.

77 Men Depart From St. Charles for Camp Funston.

Seventy-seven drafted men from St. Charles left at 8:30 this morning for Camp Funston. They were accompanied to the station by the St. Charles Red Cross Unit, Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Boy Scouts and the girls of Lindenwood College.

Canadian Parliament Dissolved.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—Paving the way for an election the Canadian Government yesterday dissolved Parliament. The election is expected to take place about the middle of January. Hugh Guthrie, Liberal member for South Wellington, Ontario, was sworn in as Solicitor-General in the Borden administration.

FINAL ACTION ON EMBARGO AWAITS NEUTRALS' STAND

Government Wants Assurances No Food Leakage to Germany Will Be Permitted.

NEW BAN PLACED ON COAL

Ships From South America for Scandinavian Ports Must Be Examined by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Final decision of the United States regarding the adoption of a permanent embargo on shipments to Sweden, Norway and Denmark, it was said today, depends entirely on awaited assurances from the Scandinavian Governments that no leakage of American exports to Germany will be permitted.

That the present embargo is not permanent was emphasized in a statement of the exports administrative board that the matter was still under consideration.

"No final policy has yet been decided on," said the statement, "because the board has not been able to obtain information from the governments of the northern neutrals repeatedly requested as to their resources and requirements and other information necessary for intelligent action."

The Government decided yesterday to refuse coal to neutral ships carrying supplies from South America to the Northern European countries unless their cargoes are inspected in American ports. In making known the decision the export's administrative board announced it would apply provision of the export's control act.

Allies to Co-Operate.

The step was taken with the approval of all the allies who will cooperate by enforcing similar regulations. It follows closely Great Britain's declaration of a complete embargo against the Northern European neutrals, which was designed to strengthen the embargo already put into force by the United States.

Some Latin-American countries are exporting freely to the European neutrals. For some time there has been a tightening up on the export of coal to South American countries in an effort to cut off supplies to German-owned public utilities concerns, which it has been charged have supplied funds for German propaganda in this country.

South American countries are the only nations in the world left in which Germany has a chance to obtain foodstuffs and other necessaries through the border countries. With this source cut off, allied statesmen feel that the ring around Germany is drawing so tightly that the economic pressure, reinforcing the allies' ever-growing military superiority, will make the German people see their cause is hopeless.

Decision Explained.

In announcing the bunker decision the Exports Board said:

"The board, in formulating its policy with regard to granting bunkers to neutral vessels, is actuated solely by the desire to prevent commodities from going to border neutrals for export to Germany. At the present time the board will not permit commodities that may benefit the enemy directly or indirectly to be exported from this country to the border neutrals because the board has not yet been able to elicit the information which will enable it to determine whether such commodities will so benefit the enemy.

"In accordance with this policy the board feels that persistency demands that it should not grant bunker licenses for a vessel which is bound for a border neutral and carries a cargo which may benefit the enemy, notwithstanding cargo may have originated in another country. In other words, while the board has no means, and does not purpose to prevent trade between other neutrals and the border neutrals, it is, nevertheless, in a position to state that if vessels wish to use the coal of the United States they should not apply our coal to the prosecution of a voyage which will result in supplying or assisting to supply the enemy with foodstuffs or feedstuffs or any other commodities.

"Numerous cases have been presented to the board where vessels have touched at a United States port en route to a border neutral and carrying cargo which did not originate in the United States, but which is destined for a border neutral and will undoubtedly accrue to the benefit of the enemy. This causes a serious embarrassment, and to avoid such embarrassment the board has adopted a policy calculated to prevent such cases arising in the future.

This policy consists in stipulating that a vessel en route to non-European neutrals which touches at a United States port for bunker coal shall not be permitted to have bunker coal for the voyage unless she will agree to return to the United States with a cargo which would be approved by the board or which is destined for a country other than a border neutral. The board is anxious to assist neutral vessels in continuing their service to South America and other non-European ports; but pending the receipt of the complete information, which has been solicited from the border neutrals with respect to their resources and requirements, the board feels that it can properly pursue no other policy than the one outlined."

GRAND JURY TAKES UP HOME MAKERS' LEAGUE

President Waugh, Last Heard of in Tulsa, When Cash Account Was Found Gone.

The grand jury is investigating the business mtehods of B. J. Waugh, who administered the affairs of the Home Makers' League, a co-operative stores and homestead land company. The league was founded by Waugh, who left St. Louis, June 17, and was last heard from in Tulsa, Ok. An investigation by other officers revealed that at that time the organization's capital had dwindled from $10,000 to 15 cents.

When this condition became public Waugh telegraphed from Tulsa that he would return to St. Louis and explain everything. He is not known to have returned, and a number of persons who invested money in the league have asked for an accounting.

Dr. Nelson Cotter, 3171 South Grand avenue, was medical examiner, and invested $3000; Walter Koppen, 3812 Connecticut, treasurer, invested $4800; Miss Cora T. Ruhr of Lexington, Ky., stenographer, put in $1500, and E. W. Weber, secretary, invested $1500. Weber formerly was a stenographer in the Circuit Attorney's office, and when the league was organized he solicited Circuit Attorney McDaniel, then Assistant Circuit Attorney, to become a stockholder. In return McDaniel was to be made counsel for the league at a salary of $250 a month, but McDaniel declined the offer.

The company's books are now before the grand jury, but it is reported the records are so badly complicated that it is difficult to learn from them how the assets of the company were disbursed. A note for $250 given Waugh, and of which there is no record, is one point upon which the grand jury is concentrating.

Pastor Found Shot Improving.
RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., Oct. 5.—The Rev. J. T. Terry, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, who with a bullet in his lungs was found yesterday beside Dr. Tom Hughes, dead from a load of shot, rallied yesterday and called for a cigar. GIGANTIC BUSINESS BUILDING CAMPAIGN
BIGGER BUSINESS!—BIGGER VALUES!

JUST a year ago we started on a Stupendous Million Dollar Sales Campaign, and thanks to our multitude of loyal friends, we have closed the year by far surpassing our most sanguine expectations. There is no standing still in this aggressive organization and by continuing our policy of quick sales at small profits we intend to make this month of October the biggest in the history of this store.

IN preparation for this Gigantic Business Building Campaign we were particularly fortunate in obtaining the entire stock of one of America's largest manufacturers of fine clothing at immense spot cash discounts. We regret that we are not permtited, for business reasons, to mention the name of the maker, as these same Suits and Overcoats are being sold by other stores right here in our own city at much higher prices. While we are unable to mention this firm's name, each and every garment bears their trade mark. When you see these labels you will be surprised that we were able to obtain such high-grade, nationally known Suits and Overcoats this early in the season at such a radical cut in price. In fact it was only due to the reorganization of this firm that we were wired to come to Baltimore and make a spot cash offer for the entire stock.

THERE are no war time prices here. As we buy—we sell, and give our loyal friends the full benefit of our savings. Every garment is sold to you at the very smallest possible margin of profit. We can assure you that every purchase you make in this Gigantic Sale means a spot cash saving of more than one-third your money. Here are the facts and figures that tell the story in the most emphatic way!

20,000 AIRPLANES BEING BUILT FOR AMERICAN ARMY

Secretary Baker Says First One Will Be Sent to France in Short Time.

24 SCHOOLS ESTABLISHED

Country Has Unlimited Supply of Young Men for Aviation Service, He Declares.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Twenty thousand airplanes for America's fighting forces in France, authorized in the $640,000,000 aviation bill passed by Congress last July, actually are under construction.

The necessary motors also are being manufactured, Secretary Baker announces, and the whole aircraft program has been so co-ordinated that when planes and motors are completed trained aviators, as well as machine guns and all other equipment will be waiting for them.

"When this nation's army moves up to participate in the fighting," said the Secretary, "the eyes of her army will be ready."

The types of planes cover the entire range of training machines, light, high speed fighting machines, powerful battle and bombing planes of the heaviest design and embrace as well as giant battle craft capable of the work of the Italian Caproni, the British Handley-Page and similar types.

"Within a reasonable time, considering the period for preparation," Baker's statement said, "this country will send its first airplane to Europe. This airplane, from the tip of its propeller to the engine, machine gun and camera, will have been made in the United States.

Enough Aviators Volunteer.

"There has been a remarkably gratifying response to the call for aviators. This country has an unlimited supply of young men possessing courage, self reliance, good judgment and decision—the things required in the air service. This service today is fitting thousands of Americans for flying."

Twenty-four flying schools have been authorized, the statement reveals, and, besides the thousands training here, students from the United States are training in all the allied countries, while many of them are undergoing intensive schooling behind several of the battle fronts. The men now in Europe will be turned over to the American troops in France.

American machines also are being built abroad, and Baker said that approximately one-fourth of the number soon to be needed will be made in the allied countries. In that connection, stress was laid upon the necessity for greatly developing and expanding the aircraft industry in the United States, all the summer and part of the early fall having been devoted to this essential ground work.

Time, too, has been required to bring under Government control many of the materials required for the manufacture of aircraft, both for this Government and the allies, as well as to insure conservation and distribution of such materials.

Provisions for Accessories.

Provision also had to be made for the manufacture of the many accessories necessary to aircrafts now at the front, such as machine guns, observation apparatus, cameras and the like, and another essential for the quick building of great air fleets for both America and its allies was international standardization in the tests of materials and their specifications.

The designing of a satisfactory motor also was necesary and the "liberty motor" was the result of the combined efforts of the best engine builders of the country. The Signal Corps and its staff of foreign advisers, the Secretary said, are well satisfied with the progress made since this motor was designed. While it is not possible to make public details of the work accomplished, Mr. Baker announced that the department's earlier expectations and hopes for consummation of its extensive aircraft program are being more than realized.

"There is practically no limit to the number of aeriel fighters which the United States will furnish in the war for democracy," continued the Secretary. "No time has been lost in experiments. The machines which already have proved successful will be reproduced in large numbers in this country."

BRITISH FLANDERS VICTORY IS ONE OF GREATEST IN WAR

Ridge Positions Captured With Comparative Ease by Remarkable Team Work.

GERMAN LOSS ENORMOUS

Many Prisoners Terribly Wounded — Teutons Lose Important Strongholds.

By Associated Press.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Thursday, Oct. 4.—British arms today achieved one of the greatest victories of the war in a tremendous assault begun with dawn against the German positions east and northeast of Ypres. Indeed, when the whole story of this battle has been told, it may take its place as an unequaled triumph of three years of conflict, for each successive report from the seething caldron along this front adds to the importance of the success recorded.

From a point near the Ypres-Staten Railroad on the north to the Ypres-Menin highway on the south, the men of the British empire have surged forward with an irresistible force which at some places carried them to a depth of 2500 yards over still more of the German keystone positions in the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge system of defenses. On the northern wing of the advance the British have reached Poelcapelle and Gravenstafel and have overrun most of the Gravenstafel ridge, which juts out to the west from the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge. South of the Ypres-Roulers Railway, the troops are reported to be overlooking the eastern slopes of the main ridge, and in some places to have pushed on into the valleys below.

Tremendous Losses Inflicted.

Not only have the British wrenched away many vital strongholds, but they have inflicted almost unprecedented casualties on the enemy.

As the attacking troops went out in quest of a great adventure, over the mist-shrouded slopes, their vast protective artillery barrage caught in its merciless swirl large numbers of the enemy, who by coincidence also had been massing for an early morning attack along a wide front extending from the neighborhood of Zonnebeke to the Polygon Wood. Some five divisions of German troops were involved, three of these having been rushed up in reserve to support their comrades in the front lines when the German attacks should begin.

A solid wall of breaking shells plowed through them in a hurricane of death and they lie in countless thousands amidst the devastation that the barrage left in its wake. Part of these ill-fated troops were the famous guardsmen in whom the German Emperor had taken such pride in the days gone by. But these massed troops were not the only ones to suffer, for reports from prisoners all along the line indicate that the Germans lost heavily throughout the territory involved.

At many places Germans ran in terror or were captured in large numbers as the British attack began. All day streams of broken prisoners have been pouring into the British cages in the rear. Perhaps half of them were wounded. Some were blinded and some were with shattered limbs, a pitiful sight even to those hardened to such scenes.

Taking the battle as a whole the Germans offered weak resistance to the British advance this morning. But despite the heavy blow dealt to the enemy it was not considered improbable that they would make strenuous counter-attacks as soon as they could reform their shattered forces.

British Organization Perfect.

The story of today's fighting is that of perfect organization which worked with clock-like precision. It was still dusk when the British began the steam roller advance, for low hanging clouds blanketed the country and a light drizzle was falling. For days an intense bombardment had maintained over the German front, but the artillery fire which opened as the great barrage dropped was appalling. Guns of all calibers from the enormous howitzers to light field guns joined in the infernal thunder which shook the countryside like an earthquake. Solid lines of vivid fire belched from the earth and from the murky sky above as the great shells and shrapnel burst along the German lines. The ruins of the little hamlets perched on the ridges stood out in ghostly silhouette against the flashes and over the whole scene the clouds threw back a crimson glow.

On the left of the advance the ground in the region of Poelcappelle was not in bad condition except along the Strombeek River, where it was very marshy, requiring a slow advance. The tanks operating with the troops here did excellent service, reducing a number of strong redoubts and concrete pillboxes. Poelcappelle was well garrisoned but apparently did not offer strong resistance. The British were in reach of the town by 10:30 o'clock

Meantime others were making their way over Abraham Heights, near Gravenstafel. There was some cellar fighting here, but it was brief. The main trouble was encountered near the fort, where the Germans had eight strong concrete redoubts. Sharp fighting followed, but the Germans finally were forced, with rifles and bombs, to surrender. Both Poelcappelle and Gravenstafel are masses of ruins. The latest reports show the British have swarmed over virtually all of Gravenstaefel ridge.

South of the Ypres-Roulers railway, which cuts the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge where the Gravenstafel arm joins it, the British were on the crest of the ridge or beyond it through the remainder of its length. They had little trouble in reaching it. There was a brief battle near Molenaaresthoek crossroads, which were fortified. Just north of here the Germans held a farm from which they poured heavy machine gunfire into the British ranks until the place was subdued.

One Snag Is Encountered.

Prisoners were obtained in Polderhoek and the chateau near there was carried after sharp fighting. Joist farm, near the southeastern edge of Polygon wood, which had been a sore spot to the British for days, still held out at the latest reports, although the British had pushed beyond it on both sides. This was the only snag of the kind encountered as far as is known.

Broodseinde, which lies on the ridge, was the approximate center of the day's attack and here was the deepest point of the advance. From this village the lines tapered off gradually to the north and the south.

The Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge, which makes its sinuous way in a northeasterly direction from the old Ypres salient, has been a vital defense of the Germans in this section of the Western front. It has been a barrier between the British and occupied Belgium. Beyond it can be seen the cultivated fields of King Albert's prisoner subjects.

For nearly three years—up to the beginning of the battle of Flanders, July 31—the enemy had sat in his strongholds along the crest of this elevation and defied the British armies to dislodge him. It has been a tremendously strong position, but by dogged determination the British wrested reaches of the ridge from the invaders. Each thrust brought them nearer to the complete occupation of this gateway to the rolling plains of Flanders.

Tower Hamlets, Inverness copse, Glencorse wood, Polygon wood and numerous other positions which formed part of the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt chain on its southern end have been torn from the bitterly resisting enemy and have been held in the face of determined counter attacks.

The Passchendaele-Gheluvelt elevation would not be characterized as a ridge in America. At its highest point it is not more than 200 feet above sea level and the approaches to the crest are gradual undulations in most places. As a matter of fact, it is really composed of a series of ridges and hills. There is a Passchendaele ridge proper, upon which stands the town of the same name. Below this is Broodseinde ridge and still lower down Gheluvelt. From the village of Passchendaele it stretches in a southwesterly direction to the old salient in long curves like the letter S. At Iverness copse it reaches its nearest approach to the stricken city of Ypres, which lies about four miles to the west of it.

Ridge Turns at Zonnebeke.

In their successive thrusts recently the British either have taken over portions of the ridge or pushed their way forward to the lower slopes as far north as Zonnebeke, which lies just under the crest. Above Zonnebeke the ridge takes a turn to the northeast, while the British line has gone well back to the northwest. A portion of the ridge between Zonnebeke and Passchendaele thrusts out toward the west a long arm known as Gravenstaefel ridge, within which lie a hill called Abraham Heights and the village of Gravenstaefel. All this area has been strongly held by the German.

In the days before the war, the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt was covered with farms and dotted with picturesque bits of forest. Now it lies bare and desolate, its earth churned up by the first of thousands of great shells which the British artillery has been hurling upon it for weeks.

The correspondent has been close to the German front in this zone. Everywhere it is the same. Hardly a yard of ground remains that is not pitted with huge craters surrounded

UNOFFICIAL SLATE FOR NEW RUSSIAN CABINET

Probable Ministry Announced After Long Session Between Present Officials and New Candidates.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 5.—Premier Kerensky's reply to the demand of the Democratic Congress that no step toward naming a Cabinet be made without the sanction of the congress, was a notification that before another day expired he would announce the personnel of a new coalition Ministry which already has been chosen. This announcement was made to M. Tseretelli of the Main Committee of the Congress.

Late last night, after a lengthy session of the present Cabinet and the others scheduled to occupy portfolios in the new one, the following unofficial slate was announced:

Premier, M. Kerensky; Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Terestchenko; Minister of the Interior, M. Mikitin; Minister of Agriculture, M. Masloff; Minister of Labor, M. Skobeleff; Minister of Supplies, M. Prokopovitch; Minister of Finance, M. Bernatzky; Minister of Religion, M. Kartasheff; Minister of Public Welfare, M. Kishkin; Minister of Trade and Industry, M. Konovaloff; State Controller, M. Smyrnoff; Minister of Justice, M. Malyantovitch; Minister of Education, M. Salaskin; President of the Ecumonical Council, M. Tretyakoff; Minister of War, Gen. Verkhovsky; Minister of Marine, Admiral Verdervski.

The Constitutional Democratic party, against which the Democratic Congress has been in opposition, is represented by Kishkin, Konovaloff and Smyrnoff. The portfolios of Foreign Affairs, War, Marine and Interior remain unchanged.

The Government has declared a state of war in Turkestan, where revolutionary movements broke out early this week. The situation appeared to be becoming normal when it suddenly flared up again. As a protest against the sending of a punitive expedition, the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates in Tashkent, the capital, has proclaimed a general strike.

The democratic congress, by a vote of 839 to 106, has passed a resolution declaring that it is indispensable to constitute a strong revolutionary authority which would follow the program of the Moscow conference of last August, and would carry out an active policy tending to the realization of a general peace.

The congress directed the Main Committee to choose five of its members to draft a scheme for forming such authority. The resolution was prepared by the committee representing all the parties to the congress and sets forth the views and principles agreed to by the majority of the conference. The resolution was submitted to the congress by M. Tseretelli, former Cabinet Minister.

STRONGHOLDS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE LOST BY GERMANS IN BELGIUM

by piles of earth. Little forests have been wiped out and only pitifully shattered tree trunks mark their sites. Here and there a few bricks rear themselves bravely to show where a farmhouse or hamlet has stood. Zonnebeke, where a few days ago could be heard the steady purr of British and German machine guns, lies like a smudge on the landscape.

There are no large places along this ridge. Passchendaele, which now is a mass of ruins, was merely a hamlet. South of it were little communities, such as Nieuwenmolen, Broodseinde and Molenaarelsthoek. All have disappeared in the deluge of breaking steel.

Ground Suited for Defense.

An infantry advance over territory of this description would be difficult, even if there was no enemy opposing. Shell holes, many of which are filled with water, form a serious obstacle to a rapid advance, and anyone of these excavations may be a nest for German machine guns. The top of the whole zone had been prepared with such defenses and the shattered forests were choked with rapid firers. Concrete pill boxes and redoubts also had been scattered in profusion throughout the line and all these divers offenses were reinforced by barbed wire fences, one of the greatest enemies with which the British have to contend. In much of this area little streams like the Retelbeek and the Polygonbeek have been bordered with veritable morasses in which the troops have floundered desperately, knee deep. Even a few hours of rain turn large sectors into fields of liquid mud and pools which may conceal shell holes of great depth.

The British artillery preparation for this offensive had been among the greatest, if not the very greatest, seen along the western front. Since last week's drive tremendous gun duels have been proceeding, covering the battle zone with clouds of smoke by day and turning the fighting lines into vivid streaks of volcanic fire by night.

The Germans have been giving much of their attention to the Tower Hamlets and the section northward astride the Ypres-Menin road and the British, in turn have been pouring a terrific stream of steel into the German positions opposite. It is in this section that the Germans have been making such heavy counter-attacks since the recent British success, apparently fearing to lose Gheluvelt ridge which they value highly as an observation point.

German Morale Lowered.

That the Germans suffered severely from the British bombardment is borne out by prisoners who stated that the ground between their front line and the foremost of their battery positions was badly torn up. In last week's battle more Germans were killed in proportion to the numbers employed than ever before. Is one small area alone a thousand bodies were counted and they represented only a fraction of the total.

All this has added to the deterioration noted in the morale of the German troops. Recently the Germans have been forced to change many of their divisions along this front since the last attack, mainly, according to the report, because they could not trust them. It also is known that at least two divisions of troops have appeared from the Russian front.

The British troops entered the conflict in the highest possible spirits.

Why Gray Hair Is No Longer Necessary

New, clean, easy, harmless treatment. First bottle gives satisfaction.

After having been tried and proven successful by hundreds of their customers, leading stores are recommending "Canute Water for Gray Hair" to those who wish the color of their hair restored. Famous & Barr Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Store, Judge & Dolph 4 Drug Stores sell it and all questions one naturally asks are here plainly answered.

IS IT ABSOLUTELY SAFE TO USE? By all means, yes. You may use Canute Water for gray hair without the slightest fear of injury to the hair, scalp or eyes, as it contains none of the injurious elements of the ordinary hair dye. Being entirely FREE from acid, sugar of lead, sulphur, or coal tar products of any kind—making it as harmless to the hair and scalp as ordinary water. It is for external use only.

WILL IT SOIL THE HANDS OR SCALP? No, it will not. Our own patented process prevents it from staining the hands or scalp. Canute Water for Gray Hair is an especially clean, convenient treatment—not being sticky or greasy. It restores so naturally and evenly no one will be able to tell you are using anything.

IS IT A DYE? Positively not. That is just the thing it isn't. Canute Water is a simple and natural method of reviving the youthful color of hair that has turned gray from age, illness or other causes. Proof that Canute Water is not a dye is that it has no numbered shades—the same bottle is good for all shades of hair. While as the reader knows dyes are numbered 1, 2 or 3.

HOW IS IT APPLIED? Very easily. Just wet your hair with it and allow to dry in good, fresh air. Nothing hard about that, is there? Apply on hair once daily and day by day observe the hair becoming darker and darker. And by the time you have finished the first bottle the youthful color of your hair will be restored. It will then remain that way and simply require a retouching once every week or two as the hair grows.

CAN THE DARKENED COLOR WASH OR RUB OFF? The color will not wash off. Shampoo the hair all you like—you may even use a hot curling iron, as not even that will affect the color. On the contrary the more you shampoo the hair, the softer and fluffier the hair will become. Remember, it will only be necessary to use Canute Water for Gray Hair afterwards once every week or two on the new hair that grows.

Believe us after a week you'll thank yourself for having tried it. Sold at the above mentioned stores for $1 a bottle.—ADVERTISEMENT.

This Is for Big Men
Arrived and in the Making

It takes a big man to appreciate value and to pay the price that brings the best.

A big man hates a sham. He appropriates the best things of life because they belong to him. He is a lover of art because in art he finds the expression of his own power. His surroundings, his manner, his dress, are all a reflection of his vigor and his achievements.

Art is but the best of the particular thing; whatever it may be. And for a man of achievement anything but the best would be misrepresentative of the man himself.

Your suit of clothes should be a work of art. You can't measure art on a square yard basis. There is more material in a sign board than in an oil painting. Yet not long ago a Blakelock canvas sold for twenty thousand dollars.

Here you have the reason why these tailors produce a man's business suit worth from sixty-five to a hundred dollars.

KAISER WANTS TO KNOW WHY TOWNS ARE RAIDED

Telegram Says Air Attacks on German Cities Have "No Military Objectives."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—A dispatch from Berlin received here describes aerial raids on German towns Tuesday night. The dispatch shows that one airman penetrated as far as Dortmund and dropped six bombs, damaging the tracks between Dortstefel and South Dortmund stations. One person was killed.

Another airman dropped six bombs near Feurbach, near Stuttgart. Small damage was done and there were no casualties.

Ten airmen, coming from southern and western directions, attacked Frankfort-on-Main. Most of the bombs fell harmlessly outside the town, but others fell at 13 places within the city boundary. The damage was small. Five persons were injured. None was killed.

In Lorraine, says the dispatch, the industrial region was subjected to numerous attacks, but owing to the effective measures of defense only slight success was attained.

A German official telegram says that one entente allied airman, returning from Frankfort-on-Main, was forced to descend by German anti-aircraft gunfire. Three attacks the same night were directed against Rastapp and Baden-Baden, causing material damage. The telegram then proceeds:

"For what purpose the French make these attacks on open German towns is not clear. In Rastapp there are no military objectives and the attacks on Tueringen and Baden-Badep can only be considered the outcome of a blind desire for destruction. The Sanatoria at Baden-Baden and the hospitals at Tueringen contain numerous severely wounded men who are there seeking recovery.

"Even the French will not dare to assert that attacks on hospitals far behind the front are of military necessity. By such barbarity the will to persevere can only be strengthened among the German people."

GERALD DU PONT, NEPHEW OF POWDER MAKER, KILLS HIMSELF

Leaves Automobile in Which Young Woman Companion Is Riding and Puts Bullet in Head.

OGDEN, Utah, Oct. 5.—Gerald F. du Pont, 22 years old, son of Maurice de Pont, a brother of the powder manufacturer of Wilmington, Del., and New York City, killed himself here yesterday shortly after leaving the hospital, where he had been for several days suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Du Pont shot himself while on a state highway. He was driving with Miss Marian Browning, the daughter of George E. Browning, a brother of John M. Browning, the gun inventor. Young du Pont left the car, walked away a few paces, placed a pistol to his head and fired.

Du Pont came West for his health a short time ago and went to a ranch a few miles east of Ogden. He said that he desired to gain health and strength preparatory to enlisting upon an American submarine chaser. Saturday he became ill and was taken to an Ogden hospital.

The Secret Service in Our Boys' Suits

On the theory that "the boy will outgrow them anyway," surface looks may be "prettied up," but the deep-down goodness may be missing.

Our standard of intrinsic value for Boys' Clothes is precisely the same as for Men's Clothes. The materials must be sound and pass the severest tests for textile and tensile strength.

The tailoring must be thorough-going, with nothing "put together with a lick and a promise."

That's our idea of Secret Service in a Boy's Suit.

FINAL MILK FUND PICTURES WILL BE PRINTED SHORTLY

More Children Worked This Year for Post-Dispatch Charity Than Ever Before.

Only a few pictures of this season's workers for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund remain on hand and these will be published within the next few days. More children have worked for the cause of the poor babies this summer than ever before, and in handling an unusually large number of pictures it has been impossible to avoid making some mistakes. The managers of the Milk and Ice Fund wish to assure all of the workers, however, that it has taken every care with pictures, and trusts that such mistakes as have occurred will be pardoned as having been unavoidable.

A considerable number of pictures were sent in which were either so small or so indistinct that it was not possible to get enlargements of them which would print, although an attempt to do so was made in each instance. Most of these pictures were returned to the senders, but three or four bore no addresses, and a safe clew as to where to send them could not be obtained by reference to the city directory. There are two or three other pictures from which the names became detached and lost in this office. Aside from this we believe our record in the handling of the pictures to be clear.

The only other ones which have not been published or will be published in the next few days, were a few which we mailed out to obtain the names of those in the groups in their order from left to right in the pictures and which were not returned. Any such pictures still held will be published if sent in at once before the milk and ice fund is closed for the season.

The milk and ice department has received from Kathleen Bell of 6514 University City a copy of a little patriotic play entitled "Uncle Sam's Troubles," which was produced for the benefit of the Milk and Ice Fund. The play was written entirely by Miss Bell and she also made the costumes and directed the excellent performance. The other children who took part in it were Gladys and Bill Bell, Dick Sutter, Edward Lowder, Edward Garvis, Norman Sutter, Vivien and Georgia Bell, Louise Stotler, Marie Jackel, Lucretia Bellville, Martha Christman, Bertha Jackel, Gladys Stotler, Margaret Garvis, Ferdie Smith and Mildred Hiniger.

KENNETT CASTLE MAY BECOME CITY FARM FOR DRUG USERS

Grounds 32 Miles Below St. Louis Visited by Edward VII 60 Years Ago, Offered for $150,000.

Kennett Castle and the farm of 4700 acres surrounding it, have been offered to the city for $150,000 by W. K. Kavanaugh, who has owned the property for many years. A special committee of the Board of Aldermen, with Alderman Hart as chairman, will visit the castle Oct. 15, to consider its availability for a municipal farm on which to accommodate drug users, habitual drunkards and other delinquents. The trip will be made on the harbor board Erastus Wells.

The city contemplates the purchase of land for a municipal farm and the project was one of those to be financed by a bond issue of $18,840,000 authorized recently, but subsequently pronounced invalid. Mayor Kiel says that a new ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen probably next spring.

Kennett Castle was built before the Civil War by Luther M. Kennett, then one of the city's wealthiest residents. King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was entertained at Kennett Castle on the occasion of his visit to St. Louis, 60 years ago. The castle and farm overlook the Mississippi at a point 32 miles below St. Louis.

SOLDIER GOES TO VISIT WOMAN AND FIGHTS HER HUSBAND

Arrested After Insisting on Seeing Her, Despite Her Objections.

The determination of Corporal Edgar Owen Moore of Jefferson Barracks to visit Mrs. Maud Siebke, 8132 Bell avenue, despite her protest, caused the soldier's arrest last night after he and Mrs. Siebke's husband, William Siebke, had engaged in a fight in front of the Siebke home.

After sending Mrs. Siebke a note telling her that he was "waiting at the church" and after she failed to keep the appointment Moore telephoned to the Siebke home that he was "coming out."

Mrs. Siebke warned him to stay away, telling him that her husband was at home and that his presence would cause trouble. "I'm coming out anyway," said Moore. Siebke got a revolver and was waiting at the front door when the army seargeant arrived. The two men exchanged blows and the soldier took the weapon away from Siebke. The husband told the police that Moore tried to break up his home when he and Mrs. Siebke resided at El Paso, Tex.

Will You Wait Until All Hudsons Are Sold?

We Cannot Fill Orders at the Present Low Prices Much Longer, for our Allotment is Nearly Gone.

Of over 50 makes of cars, Hudson is the only one that has not increased in price since last January.

And because, in the past, it has been customary to set a date for higher prices to go into effect, many people have put off their purchase of a Hudson until the last minute.

Hudsons will advance, for with the present price of materials they cannot be manufactured and sold at today's prices after the materials now on hand are exhausted. But before that time comes our allotment of Hudsons will all be sold, and we will not be able to sell you a car at present prices.

When these other makes of cars sold at from $100 to $300 less than the Hudson, our sales were greater than the total sales of any two cars that have been advanced up to the price of the Hudson. Now that practically all the cars have advanced in price, Hudson sales are at their highest.

Remember, too, that Hudson is never compared with cars that sell at or near its price, but always with cars that sell at many hundreds of dollars more.

Men who planned to buy Hudsons next Spring are ordering them today. They know then the price will be higher, and the demand greater. Today there are over 40,000 Hudsons in use—40,000 enthusiastic owners.

The present situation is an advantageous one. You can save money if you do not delay. Any day now we may exhaust our allotment. Then you will have to pay more.

We are overstocked with Player-Pianos. We find in taking inventory of the balance of this stock unsold that a large number of straight Pianos have been disposed of, but for some unknown reason the sales-force has not been pushing the Player end of the business. This compels us to concentrate greater efforts on the sale of Players. We have decided to make further reductions on many Players. The instrument illustrated above is exactly in accordance with the illustration. Note the price and the terms. Is there anything further that can be said or done in connection with this sale that will convince you of our predicament and our determination to dispose of this stock? Prices have been reduced to a point that seems almost incredible, but irrespective of that fact we are fully determined and will not allow a few dollars one way or the other, in the matter of terms or other feature, to stand between us and our ambition. Come to this store, put a few dollars in your pocket when you come downtown and we will do business on short order.

A Wonderful Assortment

We venture to say that never in the history of Piano selling in this city has such a vast stock and so many of the world's best makes of Pianos been represented. A sensation would surely be created in Piano circles if we were to mention the names of the Pianos that are being offered at this great sale.

Genuine Savings

It is not only a matter of profit for us. Our ambition or desire at this moment is to dispose of the stock. Nearly any price that you can think of will purchase a Piano here. A guaranteed saving on any instrument.

The End Is Near

Within a very short time this sale will be declared over. Your opportunity will then have passed, and do not be among those who will say, "I am sorry I did not get down there sooner." Come to this great sale now. Come prepared to do business.

They Must be Sold

No matter what the cost, we declare emphatically that we will not allow a single instrument of any kind, nature or quality to stand on the floor if prices will sell them. It is the height of economy to wear Rengo Belt corsets—they last.

Most reducing corsets have their style lines only when they are new. Rengo Belt corsets retain their lines until they are worn out, and greatest comfort comes after the first wear. This is the reason why Rengo Belt corsets have gathered new admirers each year until they have become famous.

TEAMSTER, 22, DIES OF TETANUS

Lockjaw Develops from Ankle Crushed by Wagon Wheel.

Tetanus, developing from an injury at first thought to be comparatively slight caused the death of Harry Wilson, 22 years old, a teamster, of 2720 Blair avenue, at Alexian Brothers' Hospital yesterday.

Wilson was jolted from his wagon Sept. 22, at Shenandoah and Lemp avenues. A wheel passed over one of his ankles. It was thought he was on his way to recovery at his home when infection developed. He was taken to the hospital, where a short time later symptoms of lockjaw were observed.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY AND GLOSSY

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try this!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—ADV.

CATARRH

Quickly Ended by a Pleasant, Germ-Killing Antiseptic.

The little Hyomei inhaler is made of hard rubber and can easily be carried in pocket or purse. It will last a lifetime.

Into this inhaler you pour a few drops of marical Hyomei.

This is absorbed by the antiseptic gauze within and now you are ready to breathe it in over the germ-infested membrane, where it will speedily begin its work of killing catarrhal germs. Hyomei is made of Australian eucalyptol combined with other antiseptics, and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to banish catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It cleans out a stuffed-up head in two minutes.

Sold by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Complete outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little, while extra bottles, if afterward needed, costs only a few cents.—ADV.

If He Drinks
Give Him TESCUM POWDERS Secretly

Any mother, wife or sister can stop the Drink Habit, if she wants to do so. Thousands of women are happy today, because they gave their husbands, sons or brothers "Tescum Powders." The powders are tasteless and harmless and can be given in either liquid or solid food.

You take no risk as Tescum Powders are sold under steel-bound money-refund guarantee by Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Pauley Drug Co., and Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., at $1.00 per box or 6 boxes for $5.00. —ADVERTISEMENT.

8 PER CENT A FAIR PROFIT, SAYS UNION ELECTRIC'S HEAD

Return Necessary Due to Cost of Attracting Capital, Mortimer Tells Utilities Board.

James D. Mortimer of New York, president of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., testifying before the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday at the Jefferson Hotel, declared that he considered a net return of 8 per cent on money invested in a public utility such as the Union Electric, a necessary and fair return.

At the same time, he testified that it has become very difficult to attract new capital to public utilities corporations, that their securities have come to be regarded as semi-hazardous, and that regulation has discouraged investment in such corporations. He added that practically the only method by which the Union Electric can obtain new capital is by the sale of its 7 per cent preferred stock to customers, of which $1,000,000 was offered a short time ago.

The hearing was in connection with the complaint of the Engineers' Incitation Club of St. Louis that the company's rates are excessive and discriminatory. The complaint was filed two years ago and the hearings have been continued from time to time. The hearing was continued today.

Valuation Called Excessive.

Officials of the company presented their estimate of approximately $34,000,000 as the reproduction cost of the corporation, including valuation of physical and intangible assets. The engineer for the Public Service Commission several months ago made an appraisal fixing the physical valuation at $22,757,000. It is the contention of the Engineers' Incitation Club, represented by Attorney William F. Woerner, a former member of the State Public Service Commission, that the rates of the company are based on an excessive valuation and the Public Service Commission is being asked to fix a reasonable valuation upon which the company should be allowed to earn a fair return.

Elaborating upon his idea of a fair return, Mortimer said it should be determined by what it cost to attract new capital to the concern. This cost, under present conditions, he said, was not less than 8 per cent, as follows: 6 per cent for interest and about 2 per cent for promotion fees, advertising, broker's commissions and other items. The $1,000,000 of preferred stock being offered to the customers of the company bears 7 per cent interest, and is being sold directly by officers of the Union Electric.

40 Per Cent Gross Revenue Wanted.

Mortimer also testified that he considered it necessary for a public utility to receive a gross annual revenue of from 40 to 50 per cent of its invested capital in order to pay a net return of about 8 per cent. He gave as a reason for this the nature of the investment, the high operating expenses in proportion to the investment, and the immobility of the capital.

Voluminous testimony in the nature of briefs made by various officials of the company was introduced in substantiation of the company's own appraisal of its reproduction cost. These briefs went into detail and criticised many items of the physical valuation as fixed by the Commission's engineer.

It was testified by Union Electric officials that the company's profits since 1913 were as follows: 1913, $1,791,327.31; 1914, $1,766,813.08; 1915, $1,707,939.50; 1916, $1,589,113.84; six months, 1917, $711,474.44.

CHAUFFEUR, SLAIN ON ROAD, WAS UNDER SURVEILLANCE 10 DAYS

It became known today that Thomas Evans, of 1309 Washington avenue, a chauffeur who was found shot to death early yesterday near the Edmandson and St. Charles Rock roads in St. Louis County, had been under police surveillance for 10 days.

On the night of Sept. 23 Evans and three other men were arrested at St. Louis avenue and Baldwin street for having a Ford automobile for whose ownership they could not account. The machine had no lights or license tag and factory numbers had been chiselled from the engine.

The men said the owner of the car had turned it over to them for repairs. They were held 20 hours and released. The police still have the machine, for which there has been no claimant.

Roy Snider, of 1015 North Leffingwell avenue who was arrested with Evans Sept. 23, was taken to the Dayton street station last night and held pending further investigation into Evans' death. When Evans left home Tuesday night he told his wife he was going out in an automobile with three friends. Snider says he did not see Evans that night.

SLAYER REINSTATED BY ARMY

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Lieut. Douglas Malcolm, who recently was acquitted of the murder of Anton Baumberg, a pseudo count, has been reappointed to his position on the headquarters staff in France. According to the Standard, a reconciliation between Malcolm and his wife has been effected.

The Coroner's jury first returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide" after hearing Lieut. Malcolm's plea that he had killed Baumberg in defense of his wife's honor. A jury of the Old Bailey Police Court later brought in a verdict of acquittal.

Subway Builder's Son Bankrupt.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Albert G. Wheeler Jr., son of the late Albert Gallatin Wheeler, who built the Illinois Tunnel Co.'s system of freight subways in Chicago's busines district, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, scheduling liabilities of $546,783.50 and assets amounting to $4578. The petitioner is a broker and his counsel states the indebtedness was incurred by indorsing notes for his father, who died about a month ago.

A New Shoe-Leather—

Siberian Kid Calf

found only in

Walk-Over SHOES

A NEW shoe-leather makes its appearance this year. It is called Siberian Kid Calf—really comes from Siberia and is the hide of the small calves of that country. With all the strength of calf it combines the softness and pliability of kid. It polishes beautifully and does not easily scuff.

As it has been increasingly difficult to obtain Russian skins since the outbreak of the war, this superior leather in American shoes represents a great triumph for the big Walk-Over organization.

Practically all the shoe-leather that has been brought from Russia since hostilities began has gone into Walk-Over shoes. Ask to be shown a Siberian Kid Calf Shoe.

TRAIN DERAILED ON DRAW SPAN

River Traffic Is Held Up at Alton by Bridge Accident.

Mississippi River traffic was held up 10 hours at Alton, Ill., last night, when a C. B. & Q. freight train was derailed on the revolving drawbridge, shortly after 6 p. m.

The freight train had left East St. Louis and was proceeding to Hannibal, Mo., when one of the cars jumped the track, causing several other cars to drag until the revolving span was reached. Here the train was righted and allowed to continue its journey, but several steel uprights on the span, which were broken by the dragging cars, were not repaired until this morning. Several steamboats bound for Minnesota had to put up at Alton for the night.

GIRLS! IT'S CHEAP! USE LEMON JUICE TO MAKE A LOTION

Nothing else bleaches the skin so white and beautiful or creates such a clear, spotless complexion.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin bleach, skin softener and complexiou beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. It really will bleach and remove such blemishes as pimples, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier which absorbs readily and is not sticky or greasy.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this harmless lemon lotion and apply it daily to the face, neck, arms and hands. It really does soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough red hands.—ADV.

ACT LIKE ELECTRIC BUTTONS ON TOES

Tells why a corn is so painful and says cutting makes them grow.

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug is harmless and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin.—ADV.

50 WOMEN IN CLASS FOR WAR AUTO DRIVERS

Scholars Say They Will Welcome Chance to Operate Ambulances or Trucks.

In a garage at Channing avenue and Locust street 50 St. Louis women for the last five weeks have studied the theory of automobile mechanism and assisted in the actual assembling and dissembling of machines in response to the recent appeal of the Red Cross Society for volunteer women automobile drivers.

While some of the students admit they do not intend to seek war service, others declare they will drive ambulances or supply trucks if given an opportunity.

Shown How to Change Tires.

Yesterday the students were instructed to remove a supposedly punctured tire just as they will do if they see actual service and encounter difficulties on the road.

In aprons, the women pulled, yanked and perspired over dusty and mud-covered tires. Wielding heavy wrenches, smartly gowned women knelt on the dirty garage floor and removed the lugs, which hold the demountable rims secure to the automobile wheel. For more than 30 minutes the class used various tools, including sledge hammers and light crowbars while changing tires.

All during the lesson the instructor only advised, not once lending assistance. The lesson concluded when the women had replaced the tire on the wheel and inflated it with a small hand pump, carrid in all automobile tool boxes.

Part of the course consists of recitations of what students learned at previous sessions. Discussions of automobile lubrication, operation and assembly were made.

Not All Own Cars.

Not all student own automobiles. In many instances the women have come into actual initial contact with automobiles.

Among the students who attended yesterday's class: Mmes. Frederick Bailey, 5138 Waterman avenue; P. D. Boone, Buckingham Hotel; William G. Christy, 3641 Lindell boulevard; Thomas Harris, 5652 Cabanne avenue; O. F. Scudder, 6180 Plymouth avenue; Howard Kehde, Buckingham Hotel; W. C. Harlan, 4317 Lindell boulevard; E. E. Haverstick, 4214 Maryland avenue; A. F. Meisenbach, 1438 Belt avenue and Misses Helen Day, Buckingham Hotel, Dolores Canty, 5573 Von Verson avenue, Josephine Kane, 4334 West Pine boulevard; Anna Schram, 3434 Sidney street and E. Kuhn, 3531 Halliday avenue.

FIRST MISSOURI GUARDSMAN GETS FIVE YEARS FOR ROBBERY

Arthur Craycroft, a private in the First Missouri Infantry, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary today by Judge Falkenhainer for highway robbery. Craycroft was in court in uniform.

The soldier, with Mark Wilson and E. F. O'Brien, also privates in the First, and Joseph McLaughlin, a civilian, was accused of holding up Joseph Bianco of 752 Bayard avenue, near his home, on the night of July 10, and taking $19 from him. The four were arrested later in an automobile at Vandeventer avenue and Olive street. The other three men are awaiting trial.

At the time of the arrests the First Regiment made an effort to have the soldiers turned over for military trial. Circuit Attorney McDaniel refused, saying that the army would be better off without such men.

EDMOND KOELN, Collector

U. R. FRANCHISE MAY BE EXTENDED ONLY UNTIL 1948

Proposed Ordinance No. 2 Will Be Changed So as Not to Provide 50-Year Grant.

EXTENSIONS PLANNED

Aldermanic Committee Hears Daues' Plan for 3 Per Cent Tax on Gross Revenue.

Extension of the present United Railways franchise only until 1948, the date of expiration of the Central Traction grant, is to be substituted for a term of 50 years, as is proposed in one of two pending ordinances contemplating a "settlement" between the company and the city.

This change, and abandonment of any plan for a partnership between the city and the United Railways, will be the principal departures from the provisions proposed of "Ordinance No. 2" (which does not contemplate a partnership) under consideration by the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen, it was announced last night.

In addition to these alterations in Ordinance No. 2, the Utilities Committee will make provision for more definite and liberal extensions of lines to parts of the city where facilities are now regarded as inadequate.

Proposed Tax Considered.

The committee met to consider the opinion of City Counselor Daues as to the collection of a tax of 3 per cent on the gross revenues of the United Railways without making such compensation a condition of the contract, and thus preventing the city from subsequently raising or lowering the rate as occasion demanded.

Counselor Daues held that even through the tax were authorized in a separate ordinance, it would form part of the proposed contract if it were made one of the considerations for the granting of the proposed franchise.

The tax of 3 per cent on the company's gross revenues last year would have yielded $360,000. The present tax of a mill per passenger and the license taxes paid by the company on its underlying franchises aggregate $478,000. The payments of mill taxes and franchise taxes grow larger each year, but the latter practically ceases in 1934.

Public Hearings to Be Held.

Alderman Schrantz, a member of the Utilities Comittee, wants the new franchise to contain a requirement for the extension of the Lee avenue line to the city limits on the west. There is a demand also for the continuation of the Tower Grove line to Lindenwood and a cross-town line in South St. Louis.

Chairman Schwartz of the committee says the new bill will not be ready for presentation to the Board of Aldermen for at least two weeks. Public hearings will be conducted by the committee as soon as the new proposal is in definite form. The partnership ordinance has been discarded by the committee.

SLAYERS OF NEGRO WHO USED ROPE IN ATTACKS ARE FREED

Complimented for "Nice Piece of Work" in Killing Black Who Waylaid Couples.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned by a Coroner's jury today at the inquest into the death of Hayward Wilson of 1317 Wash street, a negro, who was shot and killed at Eleventh street and Franklin avenue Wednesday night by Joseph Cipolla of 912 Wash street and William Burke of 1413 North Twelfth street.

Cipolla and Burke and their companion, George Brown, of the Victoria Hotel, were exonerated by the jury. Almost nightly for a week the negro had been waylaying couples on the street and forcing women to bind their escorts with a rope which he carried, and then disrobe. In one instance he mistreated a woman.

The slayers of the negro are now free. Assistant Circuit Attorney Dickmann after the inquest, said they should be complimented on doing "a nice piece of work."

Cipolla gave testimony which in every way agreed with his account of the shooting as published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

For a Fair Street Railway Settlement

The Absurdity of Attacking Our Franchises

This Company has asked of the City Government nothing except that it recognize the new status created by State regulation with regard to public utility franchises.

Before State regulation was established, a City Government could sell a franchise to a utility company. The company could capitalize the franchise, and if its earnings were sufficient it could pay dividends on stock issued against the franchise. Franchises had at least a presumptive money value to utility companies.

Under State regulation, established in Missouri in 1913, utility companies are forbidden to capitalize franchise values. If they capitalized franchises granted prior to 1913, State regulation now forbids them to charge rates calculated to earn dividends on such values.

Here in St. Louis your City Government is requiring this Company to reorganize and reduce its capitalization from $101,000,000 to $60,000,000, so as specifically to exclude from its securities any which may have been issued against franchise values.

This Company accepts the new status established by the State in good faith. We ask that the City Government shall accept it in the same spirit.

We ask that since our franchises no longer have any money value to us, the City Government shall cease requiring us to pay taxes on them—taxes that now run as high as $480,000 a year.

We ask that since our general franchise grants are mere permits to use the public streets in the public interest solely—giving all of our lines and their patrons equal protection for the same length of time—the City Government shall cease attacking them in the Courts.

Your City Government, challenging our general franchise grants in Court, has no idea of ordering street car service stopped on any street. It wouldn't let us stop service on any street today if we wanted to. The City's only conceivable purpose in asking the Courts to annul our general franchise grants must have been to compel us to ask for new franchises, or sue for peace by consenting to the continued collection of excessive taxes out of the fare boxes.

This attack has depreciated our securities and temporarily at least wiped out nearly $20,000,000 of the market value of our $60,000,000 physical property investment attested by the City's own consulting engineer. So doing, it has made investors here and throughout the country afraid to put money into any business subject to control by the St. Louis City Government. It has prevented us from getting new capital for extensions desired by the public.

Any street railway company, to give good service keeping pace with city growth at its fair cost, must have a street permit so framed as to protect its present and any future legitimate investment against confiscation of this kind.

If your City Government believes our existing general permits are technically unsound, and if therefore it wishes IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST to grant us a new general permit which will give the public equal certainty of service on all our lines for a term of years, and which will enable us to get new capital cheaply for extensions, we shall of course accept the new in place of the old permits.

Meantime we are obliged, in the public's interest and our own, to defend our old grants.

We believe these are valid, and we know they are ample, with our underlying permits, to give us a sound credit basis.

In view of these facts, is it not absurd for the City Government to expect us to get money for costly extensions while it continues to depreciate our investment and destroy our credit by attacking our permits to do business?

Would YOU invest in the business under such conditions? You know you wouldn't. Nor will anyone else.

SALOON MAN SET BRIBE TRAP FOR 2 POLICEMEN

Offered, Through Watchman, to Pay Them Money to "Lay Off" His Place.

How a saloon keeper tried to set a bribery trap for two policemen and, failing in that, made an effort to have them transferred from the beat on which the saloon is located, was related at police headquarters today when the Bureau of Efficiency recommended that a complaint against Patrolmen Edward A. Pickett and John Haley of Central District be "pigeonholed."

The complaining witness, Gus E. Koenig, who conducts a saloon at 501 South Second street, told the members of the Efficiency Bureau that the two patrolmen had interfered with his business by ordering his customers away from the neighborhood and making what he termed unnecessary arrests.

After testifying that the customers in whose behalf Koenig had made his complaint were for the most part police characters, the patrolmen questioned Private Watchman Grote, one of the witnesses, and got from him an admission that he had, at the request of Koenig, asked the policemen if they would accept money to "lay off" Koenig's place.

Koenig told the investigators that he had made a financial offer through the watchman, but said that he had proposed payment in check form. He said that he had consulted his attorney about the proposition to bribe the policemen and had been advised to use a check so that he would have evidence of the transaction.

The Board of Police Commissioners will review the testimony taken at the hearing before the Bureau of Efficiency and in all probability the facts will be related to the Circuit Attorney.

MILITANT SUFFRAGISTS CHARGED WITH MUTINY IN WORKHOUSE

Head of Woman's Party Says Riot Started Over Treatment Accorded Mrs. Margaret Johns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Militants of the women's party serving time in the District of Columbia workhouse for demonstrations before the White House have been charged with mutiny as a result of their rough-and-tumble fight Wednesday with guards and negro women prisoners.

The charge of mutinous conduct is made in a report by Alonzo Tweedale, auditor, in charge of the workhouse while the superintendent is under suspension pending the outcome of the inquiry. A long story is told by the report of how the 18 suffragists attacked the acting superintendent, the prison matron and three male guards who had been called to the rescue, when the officers sought to remove one of their number, Mrs. Margaret Johns, for medical treatment at the Washington Asylum Hospital.

It tells of negro women of the prison kitchen force rallying to the aid of the matron when she was threatened with a blow on the head with a club, of a general wild scramble about the workhouse corridors and yard and eventually of Mrs. Johns' departure for the hospital in a doctor's automobile after she and her guards had been mauled and hauled about. The acting superintendent emphasizes the statement that extreme forbearance was shown the prisoners, the male guards obeying orders to handle them with every possible consideration in spite of all that happened.

Miss Alice Paul, head of the woman's party made a statement denying many of Mr. Tweedale's statements and declaring that the women interfered because they were not told where Mrs. Johns was to be taken and feared that she was to be placed in confinement on bread and water. She also said Mrs. Johns was not removed for proper medical treatment when she was really ill, and that she had recovered when the authorities decided to take her to the hospital.

FEDERAL JURY CHARGES PERJURY TO MAN CONVICTED OF ARSON

Dry Goods Merchant Said to Have Misstated His Assets in Bankruptcy Suit.

Max Cohn, formerly a dry goods merchant at 2621 Franklin avenue, under bond pending appeal from a four-year sentence on an arson charge, was indicted today by the Federal grand jury on charges of perjury, making false affidavits and concealing assets as a bankrupt.

Cohn's indictment followed discoveries made by a receiver appointed to look after his business enterprises on Franklin avenue and in Bonne Terre and Flat River Mo., last year, after several local wholesale concerns had filed involuntary suits in bankruptcy against him.

It is charged that Cohn stated he had only $300 in cash, when investigation revealed he had approximately $3000 deposited in banks.

TO HELP RAISE CAMP FUND

The St. Louis Rotary Club last night voted to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in leading a movement to raise $100,000 in St. Louis as the city's share of the proposed fund of $3,750,000 to provide recreation of various sorts for American soldiers in camps in the United States. The meeting was held at the American Hotel Annex.

A meeting of committees of the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss plans for raising the fund. Other civic and business organizations will be invited to participate in the campaign.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK VISITS HER SON AT CAMP FUNSTON

Voices Pride Because All Her Sons Are in Uniform—Will Sing for Soldiers.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Oct. 5.—"Now everyone of my children are fighting for their country, and I'm the proudest mother in the world," said Mme. Schumann-Heink, as she looked lovingly at her son, Ferdinand C. Schumann, private in the the headquarters company, 340th Field Artillery, as he stood at attention in the presence of his commanding officers here yesterday. Schumann, an Arizona ranchman, came here Sept. 2 in charge of the Yuma County (Ariz.) quota.

"Doesn't he look fine, though," she continued. "And I brought him a cake, one our old cook baked at home in Chicago. You remember, Ferd, the kind you always wanted to eat all the time, and mamma wouldn't let you?" Madame was in the center of the floor by this time, and the words of the Star Spangled Banner floated through the room while everyone present stood at attention.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will remain here until Monday and will sing for the soldiers.

All her male relatives wear uniforms of one country or another. August Heink, an older son, when last heard from was in command of the U-52, a German submarine.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

For Joseph Cipolla.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Being a law-abiding citizen, the undersigned would appreciate being used as the nucleus of a much larger fund which I am sure could be raised, to be presented to Mr. Joseph Green of 811 N. 11th st., this city, to reward him for his perseverance and final victory over a public enemy on Oct. 3.

Such lawlessness should certainly be stamped out and I hope my expression will be considered in the spirit offered, as I am certain that a concerted action along this line would have sufficient efficacy to eliminate a few of the perverts from our city.

W. T. T.

P. S.—If the above be not consistent with your views, this money may be turned over to the Milk and Ice Fund and thereby do a little good.

No Time for Disloyalists.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. It is high time for every true, loyal and patriotic American citizen to stand squarely by President Woodrow Wilson in his foreign and domestic "policies." This is no time for "pacifists," disloyalists and "traitors." Every Senator had a constitutional right to oppose the entrance of the country into the war, but after war was declared he had no right to sow broadcast "utterances" calculated to undermine the loyalty of the people. Now it seems that some U. S. Senators have been sowing broadcast "utterances" calculated to undermine the loyalty of the people, and they are now about to "reap the whirlwind" which will lift and blow them out of their seats in Congress on election day.

In time of stress and war, the ordinary "spy," if caught, is shot. If so, then what is to be thought of American citizens sitting in high places in the "councils of our Government and nation" giving "aid and comfort" to the public enemies by creating excitement, dissatisfaction and division among the people of the United States in time of war? The expression of opinion by some of these Senators borders close upon a "distinct act of hostility to the Government in time of war." No member of Congress has a right to form opinions and in his "official" character and acts carry out these opinions, positively or negatively, in such a manner as to render him an unfit and unsafe legislator. He then becomes a proper subject of removal.

So far as the law is concerned, anybody can be indicted for "treason," whether inside of Congress or out of it, and if the evidence is sufficient he can be convicted and punished. Let us hope that some of the Senators will come to their "senses" before it is too late. GEORGE A. RITTER.

A Milk Mystery.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Is it possible for me to ascertain through your valuable medium why the Pevely Dairy Co. is charging 10 cents for certified milk, a raise of 3 cents a quart?

I understand this milk is obtained from Eureka and Pevely, Mo., from their own herd.

Do they not blame the Illinois milk producers for the increase?

How do they account for the above?

PURCHASER.

Financing the War.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few more facts to show the injustice of financing the war with nontaxable interest bearing bonds.

A poor man who has only $1000 to invest cannot afford to make an investment which brings him an income of only $40 per annum, while Mr. Bascom who has $250,000 in taxable assets on which he is paying 2½ per cent taxes can well afford to exchange his taxable property for nontaxable interest bearing bonds which draw 4 per cent. By adding the 2½ per cent saved from taxes it brings Mr. Bascom's income up to $16,250 per annum on his investment. His patriotism is a very valuable asset. If one of Mr. Bascom's laborers buys a Liberty Bond he must pay for it in installments with savings from his nontaxable wage and his investment falls 2½ per cent below Mr. Bascom's, while by paying the increased prices for all of the necessities he is taxed to help pay interest on Mr. Bascom's nontaxable bond.

There is no escaping the charge that this system of financing the war is iniquitous and should be stopped at once. It works to the advantage of the rich and to the disadvantage of the poor. Why does not some patriotic Congressman move to substitute these bills for the bonds with an issue of noninterest bearing Treasury notes? This should be done at once.

Does anybody believe that Mr. Lincoln would stand for this system of financing the war? He did not stand for it during the Civil War. LOYALTY.

THE RUSSIAN MOBOCRACY.

In his interesting exposition at the City Club of the Russian situation, Lincoln Steffens drew an odious distinction between free speech in Russia and free speech in America. The slur on America was evident because he illustrated the attitude of the simple-minded Russian by saying that the Russian who wants to hear all sides regardless of his own opinion—if he has any—would gladly listen to La Follette and would not think of suppressing him.

La Follette has not been suppressed in this country. He has had an ample hearing. He has had complete freedom, not to say license, of speech. We have let him speak to his heart's content. We have heard what he has to say and do not like it. More than that, we regard his speech as distinctly inimical and harmful to the country and as violating the laws of the country. We regard the licentious wrong utterances of La Follette and his kind as especially harmful and criminal because he occupies a place of high honor and trust in the Government. As a part of the Government which has declared war upon Germany for well-defined, just causes, we regard it as his duty to support the war, defend his country and promote its vital interests or get out of his office. We regard it as a crime for him to attack his country, defend and aid its enemies and thus betray the nation he has sworn to serve, and contribute to its war burdens. It is La Follette who is wrong, not the laws he violates or the public opinion he offends, nor the country he injures.

Can a man do wrong and either profit by his wrong or fail to suffer for it?

If Mr. Steffens were governed more by his head and less by his emotions; if he had thought clearly and logically on the subject of republican government, he would have avoided several sneers at the American republic in comparing it with the democratic anarchy prevailing in Russia. He would have avoided even the appearance of classing it with autocratic governments in Europe, under which the people are helpless to change their laws or policies or to abolish their evils.

Our Government is an organized, representative government of law. It is marred by bad laws and abuses which result in injustice, but we, not irresponsible and autocratic rulers, are responsible for our evils. If we suffer from bad laws or inefficient, discriminating law enforcement or from public abuses and corruptions, it is through our own consent or neglect. We can change our laws and dismiss those responsible for bad government at the will of the majority of the voters, acting through the ballot.

Some of the ideas of the Russian mobs, which Mr. Steffens pictured as composed of simple, peaceful persons seeking earnestly to know the truth and do the right, are admirable. But these ideas will never be realized and enjoyed through a mobocracy or a pure democracy. The Russian mob seeking ideal government through mobs and irresponsible committees means anarchy and ruin. The people must organize free government and, like us and other successful free peoples, learn by painful experience the right use of liberty and the practice of government. They must learn to make laws and submit to their own laws. They must learn to perfect organized free government in the form they choose.

The evils from which Russia is now suffering are due to the childish ignorance of the masses of the people, who cannot distinguish between liberty and license, a government of law and a government of despotism.

From present indications Germany will pass the winter dodging bombs from aeroplanes on the one hand and starvation on the other.

A BI-STATE MILK COMMISSION.

With the prospect of an increase in milk prices at the end of October, the Board of Aldermen will doubtless pass the resolution, to be introduced by President Aloe, calling upon the Governors of Illinois and Missouri to appoint a joint state commission for the regulation of the milk industry in the two states.

Other cities and states are confronted with the same problem of greatly increased milk prices. New York has tried for months to secure a State commission. Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware have a joint, tri-state commission, whose findings were reported in Thursday's Post-Dispatch. This commission makes some valuable suggestions, one being that the production and distribution of milk, as a prime necessity, should be treated as a public utility. We shall ultimately come to this point of view with regard to all food production and distribution.

The value of a bi-state commission would lie in its power to obtain information, through legal process, which a local aldermanic board could not obtain. Upon that information laws could be based that would do justice to all concerned.

SOLDIER STUDENTS.

The classic halls of learning will wear a strange and juvenile appearance this fall. The tread of the grave senior and the learned junior will resound only rarely on the green of the campus but the freshmen and sophomores in their usual numbers and freed from all upper class restraint will be the cocks of the walk.

Of course the war is to blame for the situation. Practically every college and university in the country has been denuded of its higher grade men. The Officers Reserve Corps, the mosquito fleets, the national army, the aviation branches, in fact every link in the armed American service has taken its toll of undergraduates.

Harvard, for example, with a normal senior class of 600, opened a few days ago for the fall semester with 100. Dartmouth, which annually lists about 200 in its highest class, will have less than a score to instruct this year. Practically all the seniors and juniors registered in the universities this year are men physically disqualified for service or students taking medical courses.

The response of the educated men of the country to the colors has been remarkably complete and inspiring. It has been said on other occasions that the militant is responsible for wars and it is the politicalist that fights them. Obviously that is not true of this war as far as America is concerned. As a matter of fact what little opposition there has been to our entrance into the world conflict has come from ignorant aliens and half-baked Americans whose clouded minds have been unable to grasp the lofty ideals for which America is willing to spill its blood and its treasure.

IMMUNITY FOR AUTO THIEVES.

With the theft of automobiles averaging eight a day for long periods in St. Louis and the suppression of the thieves conceded to be one of the most baffling of police problems, light is opportunely thrown on the operation of the machinery which society maintains at great expense for its own protection.

Two men who are said to have been caught in the act of making away last October with the motor car of President William Cotter of the Manufacturers' Railway have been under arrest for nearly a year, but have not yet been brought to trial. Five times the complaining witness has been notified to be present and give testimony against the accused twain. Each time the trial has been adjourned.

Such delays are not unusual, say the officials. If that is true, we can only wonder that the thefts do not average 15 or 20 a day, instead of eight. If suspected persons already under arrest submit to prosecution only at their own convenience, why should anyone be foolish enough to believe that greater success in arresting the thieves could furnish a solution of the problem?

COAL PRICES IN ST. LOUIS.

Directly or indirectly, every St. Louisan is interested in the price of coal to be consumed here during the coming winter. We have protested against an unreasonable increase in the price of milk. But some can do without milk. Coal is a general necessity.

For this reason, Fuel Administrator Garfield will gratify St. Louisans if he will consent to an inquiry into the local coal situation, as requested by Attorney-General McAllister. Mr. McAllister urges that the Administrator's office should readjust the scale of prices set by the Government for coal produced in the Southern Illinois field, on which the retail prices charged in St. Louis are based. These prices, averaging $1.90 and $2.20, have, the Attorney-General charges, resulted in increased rather than decreased prices to Missouri consumers, and will be especially hard on St. Louis consumers. The retailers being permitted by the Coal Administrator an increase of 30 per cent over their gross margins for 1915, St. Louis consumers, who had looked for some reduction in prices, are confronted with an actual increase, especially in the price of the lower grades, which are the only grades within the purchasing power of the poor people.

The Government Fuel Administrator owes it to St. Louis to do justice, as near as human power will admit, in this matter of regulating the fuel for a city of over 750,000 at the beginning of winter.

A MASTER OF COMMUNICATIONS.

Gen. George W. Goethals built the Panama Canal. Later he was chairman of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and some of the great number of wooden and steel vessels for whose construction he provided while in this position are almost ready for launching. Now, as president of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation, he will devote his abilities to the creation of a countless aerial fleet.

If a decoration for such work as his were awarded, who among the men of all time is more worthy of being called a Chevalier of Communications? What single individual has done more to cut down time and annihilate space? In promoting transport in three dimensions may he have the success that has already attended his promotion of transport in two dimensions.

A SPINNING WHEEL IN EVERY HOME.

The suggestion, said first to have come from a teacher of manual training in the Chicago schools, that the thousands who are knitting things for the soldiers shall bring down the high price of woolen yarns by doing their own spinning, only needs publicity to gain the large popularity it deserves.

Some of the spinning wheels that descended to us from our grandmothers were confessedly ungainly looking articles of furniture. Other patterns, however, were so skillfully made from selected woods as to be at least as ornamental to the living rooms as many types of chairs and bookcases and pianos, and they would have the additional advantage of lending a variety now unknown in home furnishings.

The low hum of the spinning wheel is undeniably monotonous, but it is invested with charm by reason of its very montony. It soothes the nerves, conduces to peace and content, tends to cure insomnia. Certainly in the apartment below it is much to be preferred to some makes of phonograph and some selections in records.

Put a spinning wheel in every home as well as a Liberty Bond and help win the war. It is a simple piece of mechanism, around which tender associations linger. Keep the wheels a-whirling until the foreign enemy is dizzily confounded and their united hum drowns out the voice of domestic malcontents.

ORIGIN OF THE MODERN HUN.

The discussion as to the relevance of the term "Hun," as applied to German soldiers, can be set at rest by noting the fact that it was Kaiser Wilhelm himself who, in the summer of 1900, addressing his Chinese expeditionary force, advised them to act as Huns. He said:

> Use your weapons in such a way that for a thousand years no Chinese shall dare to look upon a German askance. Be as terrible as Attila's Huns.

Being versed in history, Emperor William knew what this advice meant. And so must his officers. History tells us that Attila, "the Scourge of God," utterly devastated the cities and countries over which his barbarous hordes made their conquering marches. The cities were burned, their inhabitants massacred. "Those inhabitants who were not destroyed were compelled to follow in his train."

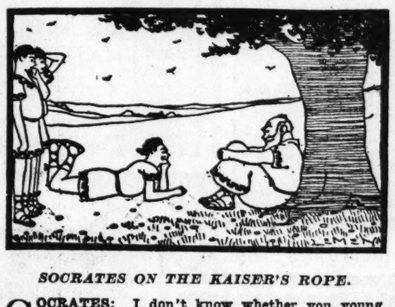

The advice has been followed, as Belgium shows. Another "Scourge of God" has arisen and his Huns are still in the business of utter devastation.

"SURE THEY'LL BACK US UP, AMERICANS AREN'T QUITTERS!"

SOCRATES ON THE KAISER'S ROPE.

SOCRATES: I don't know whether you young men will recall what I said at the outset about new-fangled war devices and the end of the war; but that is no matter. I foresaw that there could not be an end to the war until everything new in man-killing machines since the last big war had been duly tried out, and I ventured to say that the number of these indicated a very long struggle.

Glaucon: I remember it well. You said the side losing the war would not be satisfied until it had tried out everything accumulated for that purpose during the long reign of big-power peace, and that we must not therefore expect to see anybody readily throw up the sponge.

Socrates: Quite so, my dear Glaucon. What I want to say at this time is that the Kaiser, who is losing the war, has apparently exhausted his list of inventions and is probably now at the end of his rope. The submarine seems to have been about the last big trump he had to play. The Central Powers understood this, and in their desperation to win somehow they acquiesced in one of the most astonishing recourses in history. Having tried everything else and found it futile, they finally resolved to see what could be done with the submarine. I think the returns are about in. Nothing can be done with it. That is, nothing affecting the result of the war. The allies have found themselves able to hold the submarine in check, and the longer that style of warfare continues the less harm it does the allied cause. Does anybody doubt this?

Thrasymachus: Not I, my dear Socrates.

Socrates: Very well. What, then, is to be the Kaiser's course from this time on? One by one he has sought to win the war with devices which at some time promised to make him the master of Europe. He first tried his great army and his empire of trained reserves. By some miracle of fortune that was a failure. He then got out his bag of horrors and hurled them, at the world one by one, only to find them alike futile and alike increasing the number of those who opposed him.

Polemarchus: You think, then, that with the failure of the submarine the Kaiser is about done.

Socrates: I think so. He hasn't anything else up his sleeve, so far as we know. He had a jim-dandy collection of barbaric blow-ups, but they are all gone.

Thrasymachus: You have it, I fancy.

Socrates: That is sweet of you, Thrasymachus. Now let us take opposite sides of the street and see who can sell the most Liberty Bonds.

THE TRAVELERS.

DOWN we went softly,
Down into the gloaming,
Sandals alarming
Birds that heard us coming.

Did we smile sweetly
At the falling white star?
Was her kiss still warm
As sweetheart's kisses are?

Tell you true, you say—
Well, two paths went downward—
She on one homeward;
Mine led duly townward!

Trailing thru shadows
We who once were lovers;
Down to the valley,
From the skies above us!

But we turn sometimes—
Far apart, I know it,
To the same stars' house
From the world below it.

WAR TALK.

CABANY—The U. S. Navy offers more opportunities to the enlisted man and gives better pay both for active service and retirement than any other branch of the armed force of the Government. Starting at the beginning it is possible for a young man to work and study to have continuous and frequent advancement with increase of pay. To his base pay there is always extra pay for special duties and with each enlistment his pay is also increased. As an instance of this, a young man enlisting in the Navy receives now the following pay: Apprentice seamen $32.60 a month, seamen second class, $35.90 a month, and seamen $38.40 a month. From this post he may become a petty officer receiving a present war pay of $41 for third class, $46.50 for second class, and $52 for first class. Rising to a chief petty officer, his present war pay is from $61 to $83, depending on his grade of skilled work. The next higher grade is that of warrant officer which is a life position, attainable only by promotion from enlisted grades. The pay of a warrant officer is $1500 to $2400 a year, depending upon length of service with benefits of retirement at 64 years of age on three-quarters pay or at any time before 64 for disability incurred in line of duty. The warrant officers grade is composed of boatswains, gunners, carpenters, machinists, sailmakers, pharmacists and pay clerks. Warrant officers have a still higher step in that they are commissioned as chief warrant officers in the various grades, with rank of ensign, after six years of service as boatswain, gunner, carpenter, machinist, pharmacist, or pay clerk. After six years' further service from date of commission they receive the pay and allowances of a Lieutenant, junior grade, in the Navy; and after twelve years' service from date of commission they receive the pay and allowances of a Lieutenant in the Navy. The advancement which is open to ambitious young men who enter in the Navy is not limited to the grade of warrant officer. There are several avenues open for promotion to commission; for example: A boatswain, gunner or machinist, or a chief boatswain, chief gunner or chief machinist, who has been in his grade four years and is under 35 years of age may enter the examination for appointment as ensign; this examination is held every year, appointments being limited to 15 annually. A man who wins a commission in this manner is entitled to the same pay, privileges, honors and opportunities for further advancement as are open for officers who are graduates of the Naval Academy. Pay clerks and chief pay clerks under 35 years of age may take the examination for appointment as assistant paymaster in the Navy. This examination is usually held each year and is competitive. The commissioned officers rank and are paid per annum as follows: Admiral, $13,500; vice admiral, $9000; rear admiral, $8000; commodore (active list abolished), $6000; captain, $4000; commander, $3500; lieutenants, first lieutenant (junior grade), $2000; ensign, $1700. A provision contained in the naval appropriation act approved Mar. 4, 1915, provides that the commanders-in-chief of the Atlantic, Pacific and Asiatic fleets shall have the rank of admiral while so serving, with pay at the rate of $10,000 per annum, and that the officers designated as second in command of the above-named fleets shall have the rank of vice-admiral while so serving, with pay at the rate of $9000 per annum. It is practically impossible to state the exact amounts received by officers because of the differences of pay of the same grade under varying conditions.

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

THE FIRST GIRL

By Louise Pond Jewell.

THEY had been talking of the Marsdens, who had just gone down with the torpedo ship; and amid the kindly and affectionate things said about them, the exceptional happiness of their married life was mentioned. Some one spoke of this as being rather surprising, as they had married so late in life; then, naturally enough, another remarked what a different world it would be if every man had been accepted by the first girl he had proposed to. And he added that sometimes he though that first choice was one of truer instinct, less tinctured with the world's sophistication than any later one. The bachelor contributed with a laugh that that first girl had one advantage over the wife, no matter how perfect the latter—that she remained the ideal. And then, little by little, they came to the point of agreeing to tell, then and there, in the elegance and dignity of the clubroom suited to the indulgence of their late middle years, each one about that first girl, and what she had meant to him.

The explorer began:

"I met her in the Adirondacks, and knew her only one summer. After that, I couldn't see her just as a friend—and she was unwilling to be anything else to me. So, all my life, I've associated her with the woods and lakes.

"She was strong and lithe as a boy, could climb mountains, row, play golf and tennis with any of us; and what a good sport! She never fussed over getting caught in drenching rains, being bruised and torn by rocks and thorns; and once when a small party of us lost our way, and had to spend the night on a lonely mountain-side within sound of wolves and catamounts, her gayety made a 'lark' of it. She could drive horses with a man's steady hands; she knew the birds by name, and all the plants and trees that grew within miles, and she was familiar with the tracks and habits of all the small creatures of the forest. To me she was—simply wonderful, and, I confess, always has been."

"What became of her?" they asked.

"Later, she married—a man who did not know a pine from a palm! I always wondered" • • •

The diplomat came next.

"That sort," he said, "is a little too independent and upstanding to belong to my type of woman. The rough, tanned skin, the strong, capable hands—big, probably—the woolen skirt and blouse—they'll do very well in a girl chum, for a summer. But when it comes to a wife one's demands are different. The girl I wanted first—and I've never forgotten her; she was a queen—I knew during my first winter in Washington. You talk if Diana; I prefer Venus—wholly feminine but never cloying.

"She was the kind that looks best in thin, clinging things. She didn't take hikes with me through scratchy forests, but she'd dance all night long, and her little feet would never tire. She didn't handle guns or tillers, but you should have seen her pretty fingers deftly managing the tea things in a drawing room of a winter's afternoon, or playing soft, enchanting airs on the piano at twilight. She probably didn't know birds, but, by George! she knew men! And there wasn't one of us young fellow that winter that wouldn't gladly have had her snare him. Only—that was the one thing she didn't do!"

"Didn't she ever do any snaring?"

"Oh—finally. And—the pity of it! —a man who couldn't dance and had no use for society! Sometimes • • •"

"Ho wabout you?" the third member of the group was asked, an engineer of national reputation. "Was there a first best girl for you, too?"

"Guilty!" he replied. "But my account will sound prosaic after these others. You know, my early days were not given to expensive summer camps, nor to Washington ballrooms. I made my own way through college, and vacations meant the hardest work of the year. But when I was a senior all the drudgery was transformed. Paradise wouldn't have been in it with that little coeducational college campus and library and chapel and classrooms; for I found her. Just a classmate, she was. You tell how your girls dressed; I never noticed how she dressed; it might have been in shimmering green and silver, and it might have been in linsey woolsey for all I knew. But—she could think, and she could talk! We discussed everything together from philosophy and the evolution of history to the affairs of the day. I spent every hour with her that I could, and in all sort of places. I've never known a woman since with such a mind, such a breadth and clearness; and it showed in her face—the face of Athena, not Diana or Venus! I believed that with such a companion at my side to turn to in every perplexity I could make my life worth while. But she—saw it differently."

"Is she a feminist now?" slyly inquired the explorer.

"She, too, married, after a while—a fine fellow, but—anything but a student. I can't help • • •"

"Mine," said the fourth, the Socialist, "will sound least dramatic of all —though I assured you the time was dramatic enough for me. You talk about your goddesses; my pedestal held just a sweet, human girl—a nurse, serving her first year at the hospital, that time we had the smash-up, in '80. And you talk of beauty, and style, and brain; but with me it isn't of a pretty face or graceful form I think, when I recall that magic time; and least of all is it of any intellectual prowess. I'm not sure whether she'd ever heard of a sosine, or even physics and metaphysics, or whether shed ever haerd of a socine. But she was endowed with the real charm of charms in a woman—sympathy. She would listen by the hour while I poured out to her my young hopes and ambitions. She always understood; and though she talked little herself, she had the effect of making me appear at my very best. I felt I could move the world if she would just stand by and watch. But in suite of her kindness and gentleness she turned me down. Many times I've questioned • • •"

"That was all right for a sick boy," commented the diplomat, "but for a wife, a girl like Alison"——

"'Alison,'" echoed the engineer, involuntarily, "a nice name, anyway; that was her name."

"Why"—— the explorer mused; "that's an odd coincidence; so was hers—Alison Forbes."

"Alison Forbes"—— breached the Socialist, "Alison Forbes—Marsden!"

And suddenly there was a silence, and the four friends looked strangely at one another, for they knew in that moment that there had been in those lives of theirs left far behind not four first girls but one—seen with different eyes.

What Every Husband Thinks

By Helen Rowland.

BEHOLD, my Love sits musing, in his chair,
I gaze, and wonder what he's thinking there,
As, pipe in mouth, with dreamy, half-closed eyes,
He frowns, and smiles and sometimes softly sighs.

Is he, perchance, recalling those bright days
When, with glad feet, he followed Freedom's ways—
And saying, as he feels his pulses stir,
"Heigho! If I had never married HER,
Tonight I might be tasting Delmar's joys—
Sitting at poker with the dear old Boys,
"Trying my luck at billiards or roulette,
"Or dancing with some pink and white soubrette!

OR, better still—had I not 'found Her fair'—
"I might be with the Others, 'Over There,'
"Playing a hero's part with blazing gun,
"And stripping helmets from the hateful Hun!

"I might be wearing medals now, perhaps,
"Or dazzling folks with lace and shoulder straps—
"Who knows? I might have been an officer
"Some day if I had never married Her!

"I might be dining with the fair Marie,
"Or taking the high-browed Beatrice to tea,
"Or spending what She spent on HATS today,
"To make a dazzling night on Delmar way.

"Had I not dared to dream of married bliss,
"I never should have had to SLAVE like this,
"And rack my soul because beef, eggs and flour
"Are soaring like the eagle, every hour!

"I NEVER cared in those days what I spent!
"Nor reckoned the price of hats and shoes and rent!
"Alas, alack, if I again were FREE!"——

He's got the "IF-I-HADEN'T MARRIEDS!" See?

They ALL have these attacks—poor, helpless men!——
Of "If I hadn't married," now and then,
The dear, delicious, darling babbling bluffers!
A man just LOVES to muse on 'how he suffers!'

Poor Innocent! What idle dissonance!
I saw you first, You never had a chance!
Blame not yourself, nor me, for what it's taught you;
Had I not won—some OTHER girl had caught you!

Greta and the Black Cat. Part II.

"HERE I am, Witch Terrible," said the fairy. "What can I do for you? You must be in great danger or you would not have called for one of us."

The cat when it heard the fairy speak ran out of the cave limping, and law down in front of the fairy. "Help me, my good fairy," said the black cat. "I am the Prince for whom you have looked for so long. The old witch changed me into a black cat and took away my power to speak until I was held in the arms of a mortal.

I"I know here secrts, and though she dared not kill me, she wanted me to die, so she turned me into the forest to starve, and if it had not been for this girl, good fairy, the old witch would have had her wish granted.

"When she changed me into a black cat she said I should never speak until a mortal held me, and that I could not regain my own shape until a fairy changed me, but something has happened since then, and to save herself she obeyed me and called you, for I know her secret, and that it why I did not have to hunt for you, my good fairy."

The fairy touched the black cat with her wand and Greta saw in place of the big black cat a handsome man dressed in black velvet, with gold trimmings. "Now, tell me the secret you know about the witch," said the fairy.

The Old Witch threw up her arms and cried for mercy. "Remember, I called the fairy," she said; "you would have hunted a long time if I had not. Be merciful!"

"I shall not forget," said the Prince. "This woman is only half a witch," he said. "She is part mortal, and every night at 12 o'clock she has to become a mortal for an hour because she tried to change a water nymph into a frog. The River God, the water nymph's father, called on a very powerful Ogre, who was his friend, and the Ogre was about to change her into a rock, but she begged so hard he made her half mortal and left her to her fate."

"Which means she can never leave this forest," said the fairy, "and as she does many of her magic deeds at night when she rides abroad on her broomstick she is not a very powerful witch."

"Yes, that is it," said the Prince, "and she does not want it known among the fairies or the goblins or any of the magic-power folk. That is the mercy for which she begs.

"I hope you will keep her secret, good fairy, for she saved me so much time and trouble in calling you."

"I will keep her secret from all but the fairies, but one of the fairy family will come here every night to make sure no mortal has been harmed by her, for someone might stray in here just as this girl did and be changed into some other form."

"I have one more favor to ask of you, good fairy," said the Prince. "I wish to make this girl my wife if she will marry me, and I would like to have the proper clothes for a Princess, so that I may take her to my palace at once."

"What do you say, my dear?" asked the fairy. "Will you marry the Prince?"

Greta felt she must be dreaming, but she was sure she would love the handsome Prince if she were awake, so she told the fairy she would, and the next instant her ragged clothes dropped from her and she stood before the Prince in a beautiful green velvet riding habit with a long feather in her hat, looking every inch a Princess.

That night a great feast was held at the palace of the Prince in honor of his return, and to celebrate their wedding, and the very next day Greta and the Prince rode to the home where she had once lived to give Peter a bag of gold.

"He was the only person who ever treated me kindly until I met you," Greta told the Prince, "and I shall never forget him."

Greta was not recognized by Martha or her son Robert, for they little thought the beautiful Princess was the poor girl that had once been their slave. But Peter, who had loved her, looked after the coach as it rolled away. "It looked a little like her," he said, "but, of course, it could not be." Many gifts did Greta and the Prince send to Peter, and in his old age he was given a comfortable house and plenty to eat, and though Martha and Robert shared his good fortune, they never knew who sent it.

The Prince told Peter who the Princess really was, one day, the poor old man was so sad because Greta could not be found, but not a word did he tell of this to Robert or Martha, and it was on Peter the Princee smiled when she came to bring them gifts.

The First Telescope.

THE first telescope has been attributed to various scientists and inventors of the early part of the seventeenth century, including Galileo, Jansen, Jacob Adrianz and Zacarias Tausz; but documentary evidence points to a Dutch spectacle maker, Hans Lippershey, as the man who discovered the germ of the idea.

In the archives of Holland is a petition, presented Oct. 2, 1608, in which Lippershey asks for what would now be called a patent for an instrument for seeing at a distance. The Senators were given a demonstration of the contrivance in the turrets of the prince's palace, and the committee was so much impressed that they gave an order for three telescopes. The price paid was 900 florins, or about $870 each. A few months later the Senators refused to give Lippershey the monopoly he desired on the ground that "it appears that many other persons have a knowledge of the new invention." The lenses of these first telescopes were made of rock crystal.

Early Razors Shaped Like Half Moon

RECENT excavations in parts of Italy where the Etruscans flourished long before Rome was even a village have brought to light several examples of the razors used by the Etrurian gentlemen. They were made of copper, as steel was then unknown, and shaped like a half moon. The edge of these razors, no doubt, was originally sharp, but they must have been an instrument to inflict torture upon the toughest face. In size the razors were of about the same dimensions as the curved knife used today for chopping vegetables.

But the Etrurian razor was a great improvement over the method used just a short time before the period of Etruscan culture. For in that far-away day the nations of Southeastern Europe which did not wear beards had but one way of removing hair from the face. That was a simple way—they plucked out their beards, a hair at a time.

"I don't mind," she said. "Only—I should like to make one condition."

"And this is?"

"I have dreamed for years of getting married; but not in this way. But I will marry you if—when you return—you will propose to me all over again, and we can go on a honeymoon, and I can be courted, and—well, you know, I am sure!"

"All right," he said, with a smile. "To be honest with you, dearest, I thought I was going to escape all that—but I see it's no use. I might have known better. Even a war like this cannot keep a woman from having her own way—especially about a wedding."—Life.

Domestic Tilts Solve World-Old Problem: "How to Keep Interested Though Married"

This Is the Philosophy of a Writing Cynic, Who Dearly Loves a Scrap Between the Wedded Couples of His Acquaintance and Declares Incompatibility Is the Spice of Married Life — Advertised Household Felicity Makes Him Yawn.

By Nixola Greely-Smith.

"INCOMPATIBILITY is the spice of married life—the only answer that has ever been found to the age old problem of how to be interested though married."

This epigram summarizes the philosophy of an amusing article by Campbell Lee in the October number of Vanity Fair.

"All the world loves an incompatible," announces the sprightly analyst of the new species. "Domestic difficulties have a morbid fascination for all onlookers. But there is nothing so boring as other people's happiness; just start to talk about how blissfully happy you are and your listeners' minds will wander as if they were in church. Happily married couples are of interest to no one except grocers, insurance agents and perambulaotr makers."

The moral of this effervescent study of incompatibility is that the really happy marriage does more to make the institution unpopular than all the statistics showing what women spend on their clothes.

THIS may be an extreme statement of the case for the unhappily married, but there is no little doubt that contented couples are dreadful bores. My own distrust of the loquaciously blissful has reached such a point that whenever a man tells me his wife is an angel I say to myself, "Poor creature, how much you wish she were NOT!" And when a woman insists on talking me into a coma about what a GOOD man she has married, I change the subject tactfully to hats or hair dressers, no matter how much I want to tell her to cheer up, he may yet elope with a manicure girl.

Socially the incompatible are much more diverting than those married persons who never differ in public. Many a dull dinner party has been saved by a lively spat between a husband and wife willing to divert the company. Many a slow dance livened up because Mrs. Jones informed her cowering mate before all the guests that if he dared to dance once more with that awful looking Brown girl she would go home to mother tomorrow.

EVEN in private conversation the incompatibles are infinitely more diverting than those bemused beings who insist upon talking about their happiness generally to convince themselves. Whenever a woman tells me that her husband, a middle-aged manufacturer, who wears horn spectacles, is king among men and a prince among lovers, I say the multiplication table over to myself or recite the Kings of France or as many of the presidents as I can remember to keep awake. But when she describes some worthy soul I have always assumed to be petrified in the domestic virtues as a being of demoniac cruelty and subtle vice, I begin to wonder if I have been mistaken all these years and the man is not so deadly after all.

The author of Vanity Fair's sprightly article—a man writing as a married woman—I think supplies a new definition of the ideal husband:

"I often wonder what it would be like to have an ideal husband, but that is one of those things no married woman will ever know anything about. But I do like to thinkof having something around the house who would always be in the wrong, whose feelings would be hurt of I didn't open at least one charge account every day, who would understand perfectly what I saw in other men but who would have eyes for no other woman, not even the wax ladies in the shop windows in lingerie week."

On the whole this is the best description of an ideal husband I have found. Some women may not be interested in the charge account specification; others may be sufficiently sure of their own charms to permit a semi-annual glance at another woman, but the ideal purveys something to please every one.

SURELY there is no woman who would not subscribe to this aspiration:

"I love to picture someone who would not treat my family as if they were Germans, who would occasionally remember to tell me that he liked my hair that way, and who would at least appear to be interested in my conversation—in short, someone more like a friend than a husband. But it would pall, I suppose. It would not be sporting enough. Married life would be about as hair-raising as clock golf.

"The incompatibles provide most of the variations of wedlock. There's never any danger of their being becalmed on the sea of matrimony; a storm is always brewing somewhere on their horizon. There is nothing like incompatibility for making a woman entertaining. Under its influence she becomes electrical, inventive, skillful in provocation, artful in reprisal and gloriously unexpected in everything."

Incompatibiling and cooling, Vanity Fair concludes, supply the only zest of married life, and is therefore the real answer to the Sphinx's riddle.

Pleased.

"DOES your wife admire your judgment?"

"Yes, in the matter of selecting a spouse."—Judge.

BETTING IN WINDY CITY 11-10 THAT SOX WIN OPENER

Many Takers on Both Ends Are Found—No Large Wagers Made on World's Series.

TICKETS ARE DELIVERED

With Supply Almost Exhausted, Scalpers Are Figuring on Raising Their Prices.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—With fair weather promised, both teams in the city, scalpers selling tickets regardless of efforts to stop them and thousands of fans planning on spending tonight in line waiting for the opening of the bleachers, the stage for the world's baseball championship series is set.

The Chicago (American League) team, hosts in the first two battles for the crowning baseball honors, had a short batting practice yesterday, followed by a conference, at which time war plans were discussed and strategy outlined. Pitchers tried out their arms during the afternoon and the teams pounded the ball about the Sox park. Rain during the night had dampened the ground and made team practice impracticable.

The New York Nationals played a practice game with the local National League team, which was won by the latter 9 to 5. The visitors used their regular lineup in the game at the start, but after three innings substituted a lot of second string men.

Giants Lose Practice Game.

The weather prediction for the opening game tomorrow calls for fair weather with a slight drop in temperature. This, followers of the game say, will not work any hardship on either team as both squads are in good condition.

The tickets for the first three games of the series were given out to the fortunate buyers yesterday. Scalpers, who had promised to have plenty of tickets for the opening game were busy today making deliveries to favored customers and returning money to others. Their supply was said to be far less than the demand.

At the first appearance of the tickets at the offices of the brokers yesterday $50 was asked for one ticket, good for the three games, for which $15 was charged at the park. As the supply of tickets in their hands became exhausted the scalpers began to talk of a raise in price and it was predicted early today that the price might be double the amount first asked before the game is called tomorrow afternoon.

Grand stand reservations, selling at the park for $1.50 were not to be had from the scalpers, although one salesman offered to deliver tickets of this class Saturday noon at $15 for the three games.

Betting on the series so far has not been heavy in Chicago. A number of freak bets have been offered but takers are few. Followers of both teams are claiming they have money to offer at odds on their champions, but no large wagers have been recorded. Odds of 11 to 10 that the locals will win the first game was the favorite bet today and found many takers on both ends.

Final Dope on World's Series Gives White Sox Good Margin

If Rowland's Men Apply Their Mechanical Strength Properly, They Ought to Win in Coming Games With John McGraw's Giants, Analyst Fullerton Says.

NUMBER THIRTEEN.
By Hugh S. Fullerton.

CHICAGO'S White Sox ought to win the world's series, provided (accent on the provided) they apply their mechanical strength properly. The last week has seen material gain in strength by the Chicago team, and a slight loss in mechanical strength by the Giants. In other words, the Giants are not quite as well prepared to go into the world's series as they were a fortnight ago.

The changes in condition and in strategy that have taken place all appear to favor the White Sox. Rowland's belated move in sending Weaver to short and keeping McMullin at third may prove the deciding point. Last March, when I was busy doping the teams, I took it for granted that Rowland would play his team that way, and I figured the best possible combination was McMullen at third and Weaver at short. Rowland elected to play Risberg at short and Weaver at third, and he went through the season practically with that arrangement, which was not, never was, and never will be, a good one.

It is rather pathetic for Risberg, after his troubles and his game struggle to make good, to be bench on the eve of the series. It should have been done months ago. Risberg is going to be one of the stars of the game, but one does not win world's series on futures.

Change Helps White Sox.

HOWEVER, the change affects the figures of both teams. It decreases New York's figures slightly, reduces the pitching worth of the Giant staff 1½ per cent, and increases the defensive value of the White Sox in two positions besides adding 36 points to their offensive value.

Meantime New York has lost 45 more points through the Herzog affair. I figure this a straight loss in both attack and defense, not because of the trouble, but because it reveals Herzog's physical condition. He will try all the harder, because of the clash between himself and the management, but the truth is Herzog is not up to his top form.

Final Figures on the Coming Games Amended

Position.	New York.	Chicago.
First base	1,374	1,379
Second base	1,386	1,407
Shortstop	1,283	1,259
Third base	1,146	1,141
Left field	1,144	1,097
Center field	1,194	1,232
Right field	1,022	996
Catchers	1,497	1,544
Pitchers	2,127	2,266
	12,153	12,321

The long drawn out schedule adopted by the National Commission also affects the figures. It reduces the value of the substitute pitchers.

The last 10 days have been very important to the fellows who follow the game closely. Rowland has been working his pitchers into condition, and it is evident that he figures upon Cicotte and Faber to win for him. He has been working Faber entirely with a view to the series, and the big fellow appears to have awakened to the importance of hard work at last.

I have not yet completed the process of doping. The end of all dope is its application to the games. But here is one prediction: All Faber has to do is to pitch two games and win one of them to win the series for the White Sox. Cicotte can carry the greater part of the burden. He can win the series with a 50—50 break on the part of Faber and some help from Russell.

Perritt's Condition Means Great Deal to Pennant Winners of National League

McGRAW'S efforts to get his pitching staff ready are not entirely encouraging. Perritt has not pitched in his proper form. He has been off color for some time,, and it is evident McGraw was trying him out to see how he worked. He has been tagged in lively fashion, but the one sign of promise has been that he has had their control.

McGraw evidently wants both Benton and Perritt in shape, although he will rely upon Schupp and Sallee. He expects them to return winning games, and is striving desperately to get another pitcher ready to win one out of two starts. Perritt is the logical man for this, but, if McGraw is hard pressed and Perritt fails to deliver, he probably will take a chance with Anderson.

It is necessary, before concluding this study of the teams as compared with each other, to compare the managers. I have tried through this entire series of articles to express the value of the managers figured in calculating what effect they and their methods have upon individual players.

McGraw's Word Is Final.

McGRAW is a martinet. His word is absolute. He directs practically all play from the bench, and he accepts the blame for any mistake and lets the credit go to the player. He is a man absolutely just and fair and impartial. He plays no favorites. He "rides" his men to death, but treats all alike. His methods are not sportsmanlike nor fair, but they are darned effective.

In the season he gains much by "riding" umpires. There is no secret that he has the "goats" of the majority of arbiters. But in a world's series the methods of McGraw are not effective. Managers and players are suppressed rigidly. The umpires possess absolute powers.

He is one of the greatest of baseball generals, a marvel at outguessing opponents and an artist in the attacking end of the game. He believes in run getting and in scientific getting of runs. He gets more runs per hit than any manager, and he plays the stages of the game better.

Rowland is of an entirely different type. He is a great manager of men. He gets results because he keeps his men working and because they admire and love him rather than fear him. On the field he is not a good general. He is too enthusiastic, and his worst fault is in overestimating the ability of his own men. He has improved wonderfully in the last two years, and corrected his worst faults. He is modest, anxious to give his men credit and to take little for himself, and he is wild to win.

Between the two you would, if you knew both, root your head off for Rowland and secretly believe McGraw would win.

Watch for This One.

TOMORROW we will conclude the dope. We have figured the individual strength of each man, in each position, as compared with his opponent. We have figured pitching strength (of the men who will figure in the series), have figured conditions, managers and everything that enters into such a series. Now, we must apply these values to the game—pitcher against team, day by day.

Tomorrow I will attempt to figure which pitchers will work in each game, how many runs and hits the teams should make of each. The openness of the series is a heavy handicap in this doping, because it gives the managers great latitude. However, I think we can figure it closely enough to decide which team will win the series, how many games will be necessary to settle it and approximately what the scores will be.

HAWKINS MEETS HALL.

Lawrence Hawkins and Bennie Hall are scheduled to meet in the 12-round feature bout of the negra boxing show at the Future City A. C. tonight.

CITY TITLE MAY CHANGE HANDS IN GAMES TOMORROW

Cardinals, With Two-Game Lead, Can Win Series From Browns With Double Victory.

With the Cardinals two up at the turn and four to go, those fans who are stringing with the Huggins forces to bag the city championship from the Browns are confidently predicting that the objective will have been achieved within the next 24 hours. All is quiet in the northern sector of the local baseball front today, an armistice having been declared. Hostilities, however, will be resumed tomorrow, the theater of war shifting to the Cardinals' park.

As a double bill is on the program tomorrow, it is possible that the Cardinals may put an end to the agony and by capturing both games annex the title. Then, again, it is probable they will not, for Fielder Jones inclines to the belief that the most trying days of the fall campaign have passed and better things are in store.

Cardinals Earned Victory.

Yesterday's affair, which went to the Cardinals, 3 to 1, Bill Doak directing the fire, like its predecessor, was an epic of martyred pitching and bad fielding on the part of the Browns. It is true the Cardinals deserved the game. They scored two earned runs off Davenport and Sothoron whereas the Browns' only count was the result of Paulette's muff, a wild pitch and Jacobson's single.

However, there may be a sound basis for the logic that the Browns still have hope. It's a fact that their play cannot be worse than it has been and while the psychological effect of battling against a two-game handicap is not to be discounted, its not without the bounds of reason to expect an improvement.

This much is in Jones' favor: The two best pitching bets of the Cardinals are out of the way. Meadows could be used again Saturday, but it is doubtful if Huggins will make such a choicee, with Goodwin and Ames hanging around. On the other hand, Bob Groom still is in reserve and either Lowdermilk or Sothoron will take care of one of the two games tomorrow. Therefore, it appears the A. L. entry is better fortified on the pitching peak for what is to come than are their opponents.

George Sisler minimized the Browns' chances yesterday by permitting himself to be benched by an umpire for the first time in his big league career. It is unusual for Sisler to argue with an arbiter, but it is profoundly so for him to continue the wrangle to the point of expulsion. That is precisely what Sister did yesterday, when he claimed Doak had made a balk. Umpire Owens refused to be of the same mind and Sisler learned the lesson which eventually must come to all players, i. e., the utter hopelessness of arguing with an umpire once a decision has been made.

Players to See Hoppe.

Willie Hoppe, world's billiard champion, in company with Peterson, watched the game from the stands. Hoppe and Peterson will give an exhibition this morning at the latter's parlors, to which the Browns and Cardinals and Umpires Quigley and Owens have been invited.

Sheriff Serves Players.

A pussy-footed gentleman, wearing the proverbial green goggles and pink whiskers was sighted just outside the Browns' park yesterday. Willis Johnson, among others, investigated. He proved to be a regular Deputy Sheriff, whose vest pocket was bulging with official papers. The object of his visit was to serve subpenas on several members of the Browns whose depositions are wanted in connection with the Johnny Lavan-Derrill Pratt vs. Phil Ball suit. It is said testimony in the affair will be taken very shortly.

The players served follow: Jacobson, Hale, Rumler, Austin, Magee, E. Johnson, Groom, Koob, Severeid, Sloan, Hartley, Sothoron, Davenport. Sisler was not at the park when the deputy arrived.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. DAVIS.

The Walrus and the Carpenter.

"THE time has come," the Walrus said,
"For us to go to Chi,
And see that nifty battle for
The big world's series pie."
"I fear me," said the Carpenter,
"The prices are too high."

"Oh, have no fear,' the Walrus said,
"No scalpers are allowed
To purchase tickets to the game
And sell them to the crowd.
To foil them in their gentle graft
Comiskey, he has vowed."

A scalper saw the Carpenter
And neatly raised his hair;
He sold him tickets to the game
At fifty bucks a pair;
And this was very odd, because
There were no scalpers there.

"Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
The scalpers couldn't rob
The public if a million oops
Were working on the job?"
"I doubt it," said the Carpenter,
And heaved a bitter sob.

Oh, George!

George Sisler was put out of the game yesterday for kicking. Looks like first division!

Cincinnati trimmed Cleveland in the opener for the Ohio championship. The old Grandma League is waking up. Boy page the White Sox!

Important, if True.

GEORGE STALLINGS says the Giants will win four straight from the Sox. George must have sold his recipe for making world's series miracle dope to John McGraw.

* * *

On the other fin Ed Walsh, now one of Stallings' trusted employes, says the White Sox will clean up. Which goes to prove that you can't believe everything you hear.

* * *

The White Sox in their red, white and blue sox will look somewhat like animated barber poles. Maybe that's a sign that they are going to trim the Giants.

Good Losers.

The Pirates' contribution to the losing column was 103 games for the season. Demonstrating that the Buccaneers are the best losers in either league.

* * *

Now that the world's series has been analyzed by every baseball sharpshooter in the country, the Giants and White Sox will take a whirl at it tomorrow and see what they can make out of it.

* * *

Buck Herzog is back on the job feeling greatly improved after his two weeks' rest. Perhaps a slice of world's series melon may be good for what ails him.

* * *

Kid Gleason and the Eddies, Collins and Cicotte, went to Philadelphia to spy on the Giants. The betting, however, still remains at even money or thereabouts.

* * *

The only way to get even with the guys who are selling counterfeit tickets to the series is to pay for them with counterfeit money.

The inter-league battles now stand 8 to 0 in favor of the parent body. Boy, page Ban Johnson!

The Trolley Dodgers, 1916 champions, finished in seventh place. Couldn't stand prosperity.

Pitcher Jim Shaw of the Senators won his $500 bonus for winning 15 games on the last day of the season. That's drawing a pretty fine finish.

Comiskey is 1 up on the scalpers and going strong. Stay with 'em, Commy!

The United Railways is asking the city for a 50-year franchise. Probably want to give the Union avenue line plenty of time to make a round trip.

It only took 11 Cubs to trim 18 Giants yesterday. But Johnny was probably working for the benefit of the Commy's espionage department.

BATTLE TONIGHT, MAY BE LAST FOR CHAMPION LEONARD

Lightweight King Notified He Will Shortly Be Assigned to Camp—Meets Vic Moran.

By Robert Edgren.

(Copyright, 1917, by Press Pub. Co.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Benny Leonard has been notified that he will be assigned to a training camp in a few days. His immediate answer was that he will cancel all engagements and go the moment he receives the word.

Tonight fights what may be his last engagement in the ring in months, years or the span of his lifetime. He meets Vic Moran at the Harlem Sporting Club. Last winter he fought 10 rounds with Vic Moran and found the New Orleans lightweight a hard man to put down.

In fact, Moran took all of Benny's punches, stayed on his feet and made a surprisingly good showing. He has fought Charlie White and many other topnotchers. The weight tonight is 138 pounds ringside, which poundage was made to suit Moran.

Personally, I think Benny Leonard is likely to knock out any lightweight in the world in less than ten rounds. His quick knockouts of Johnson and Dorsey, the best of the colored lightweights, added to the long string of knockouts delivered in less than 10 rounds in his last score or so of fights, prove him the greatest lightweight the world has ever seen.

Not even the famous Joe Gans, Levigne, Erne or Battling Nelson ever showed such furious agressiveness and such punishing power.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Everybody's Goat Is Safe.

PRONENESS of the ball player's wayward goat to yield to the white of "Buck" Herzog, and those bad, bad Giants, during world's series tests, need not worry the owners of Nanny and Billy any further. Circumstances over which the National Commission has control have contrived that a minimum amount of cajolery will be permitted, in the coming clash, for the big melon.

The National Commission has sent forth a bulletin of which the following is the substance:

"Prior to the commencement of each world's series game the umpire behind the bat shall notify each player of the fact that the officials will enforce all rules against unmannerly or unsportsmanlike conduct.

"Umpires will eject from the game players who use improper language, employ unfair tactics or violate any rule of the game.

"An unseemly disorder or noise on the bench must be promptly suppressed by the umpire behind the bat. Substitutes who repeat an offense after one warning, will be ordered to the clubhouse; regulars who offend will be taken from the game. The commission will determine their punishment before the start of the next game."

Coupled with the fact that the four umpires this year will be disposed so that one is at each base and therefore in a position to hear the slightest comment from the coacher's box or the bench, the Angoras of the Sox seem to be effectually safe-guarded from the raids of Bucko Herzog and McGraw's other Prussians.

Thus, having pulled the cork of Muggsyism, we look for a corking good series.

Bought and Paid For.

"MONEY makes the mare go" was genuinely exemplified this year for the first time in baseball, perhaps, when the Sox and Giants won the right to fight for the richest prize of the sporting world. The stars of both clubs were PURCHASED, not DEVELOPED, almost without exception.

Comiskey and McGraw have reinforced their teams at important points by paying high prices for tried and tested stars, or by giving fabulous sums for the cream of minor league talent.

McGraw Developed Schupp.

AMONG McGraw's purchases of predeveloped talent may be mentioned Sallee, Perritt, Kauff, Benton, Anderson, Zimmerman, Herzog, Rariden, Gibson and others. Comiskey handed Rowland such superb bought-and-highly-paid-for material as Joe Jackson, Eddie Collins, Chick Gandil, Schalk, Felsch and most of the pitching staff.

Rowland has seen only one or two men develop since he emerged from the bushes of Peoria to assume charge of the Sox. McGraw did develop a few of his men by the exercise of patience, the most notable being Art Fletcher and—best of all—Ferd Schupp, who was three years in the making. As with Marquard, McGraw bore with this great left-hander when he saw he had the makings and he eventually came through.

Rowland was three years tuning his championship racer to a winning pitch, while McGraw unmade one good team, in the middle of last season, and built up another before the year was ended. Credit is due to both.

* * *

One Record Probable.

NOTWITHSTANDING the many pitching theories advanced as to the steadiness of both club's hurlers in the pinch, it seems a safe conclusion that the record number of substitutions for a world's series in recent times will take place during the coming clash.

Numberless times during the year pitchers of both teams—and first string pitchers, too—have been compelled to yield their place on the hill to what seemingly about to waver.

There seems a lack of dependability and of nine-inning stamina about the staffs of the clubs which leads the admirers of both to fear that the pitching staff of the defense will be the weakest in years.

Not only is this forecast by the wisdom of the coaches and managers son's relief pitching record of both teams, but it is found in the hitting orders of both attacking forces. These include some great hitters, well known for their ability to "come through" when the smashing is wanted. Moreover, both clubs is to be found a sprinkling of what the neolithic sport writers liked to describe as pinch-pill-pasters—hitters able to break the heart of the staunchest hurler by hitting him in succession.

Nor is it likely that either manager will allow the cracking of any batter to reach the breaking point. When the stress begins to show, the veteran wag will bring a fresh victim from the bull pen to the slaughter.

The logical deduction from the foregoing is that the games will result in larger scores than formerly, and that the breaks of each day will be the final and decisive factor in winning the series.

Easy for McGraw.

THE enemy pitching factor is the easiest McGraw has had to solve in years. With the possible exception of Cicotte, there is no outstanding individual on the enemy corps. No supermen like Rowland, Plank, Joe Wood or Coombs are available—the records show—to hurl the Little Corporal of the baseball world. Instead there is Faber, who has not been at his best; Russell, whose pitching arm has been so badly off that he is unable to swing his head with his left hand; Joe Bush, who is barely a wining pitcher even with championship support, and Williams and Danforth, many of whose victories are relief game "wins."

If McGraw's present world championship team is, as some have figured, a stronger one than any McGraw ever had before, then the White Sox will have to be stronger than the great White Elephants of Mack, at their prime.

THE POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STEEL COMMON LEADS A RALLY IN LATE TRADE IN WALL STREET MART

Early Prices Are Lower on Fairly Active Dealings, but Selling Subsides---Bonds Are Slightly Irregular.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyright financial review today, says:

"Movement of prices on the Exchange today was marked by irregularity, culminating in a fairly vigorous rally in the late afternoon.

"After such a prolonged and drastic decline as that which has occurred, it is natural that the movement should be checked, either by the refusal of owners of securities to sacrifice their holdings at current prices, or by the attraction of new investment funds by the low figures to which securities had fallen.

"To what extent either of these forces operated today, was debatable; the somewhat reduced scale of transactions on the Exchange at least suggesting that the pressure to sell was for the moment less urgent. Professional operators on the market have undoubtedly played a part in this week's decline, by their speculative sales, made in expectation of being able to cover at a profit.

"Wall street itself seriously debated the ethics of such short selling today, from the standpoint of its relation to the Government loan flotation. That severe decline in stock market values is hurtful to the sale of war bonds might be demonstrated, both because of a possibly shaken confidence in security values among the general public.

"More than that, it is also perfectly true that large professional sales may temporarily increase the weakness of a declining market. But it is equally true that every share of stock thus sold must be repurchased later on, and that the seller for the decline, thus, at one time or another, contributes as much to the support of the market as he did to its depression.

"The point in question is merely the propriety of making such sales at a time of national emergency. Some features of the new revenue act have contributed far more to the market's fall than the speculators who, properly or improperly, avail themselves of an existing situation.

Incomplete Government regulation of iron and steel prices is keeping the industry in an upset state, according to the Iron Trade Review. Excepting war business, buying and selling remains largely suspended. Little tonnage is being offered on the open market in those products where fixed prices now apply. Various meetings of produceers during the week have been devoted to the task of restoring a clear basis of trading to many materials not embraced in the original price announcement.

"Until the whole field of mill and furnace products has been traversed and necessary adjustment to the new price structure has been made, the present unsettlement seems destined to be prolonged.

"Questions raised as to the standing of recent price agreements under the anti-trust regulations brings the response from Washington that these laws virtually have been suspended by force of war necessity. The Government considers itself a party to these agreements which are interpreted broadly as not being in restraint of competition. In this connection evidences have appeared too numerous to be explained away by overhanging negotiations that some makers are not acting in full accord with the price agreement with the Government. On the whole, however, the great majority of the mills and furnaces are disposed to act in harmony with their arrangement with the Federal authorities. It is clear the Government and its allies will obtain their steel at the new prices. How the outside trade will fare in the division of the remaining tonnage is the big question that the future alone can answer.

"After a month of intermittent banking of furnaces forced by coke shortages, the September pig iron output remains practically stationary. With one less day the month showed an output of 3,137,242 tons against 3,238,970 tons in August. A decline of 13 which came toward the month's close was shown among the active furnaces. The list of banked furnaces is much longer."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Confusion of speculative sentiment was indicated by the irregular price changes at the opening of today's stock market. A few leaders registered substantial gains over yesterday's heavy close, while others were disposed to seek lower levels.

United States Steel reacted after a firm start to its recent minimum of 105¾, but imediately rallied a point and Bethlehem Steel gained as much. Other equipments, oils, tobaccos and active specialties were hesitant. Ohio Gas featured the utilities at a decline of 2¼.

Support of United States Steel, which fluctuated between 105¾ and 107¼, was the noteworthy feature of the forenoon and went far toward stabilizing prices elsewhere. There was recurrent pressure, however, against tobaccos, petroleums and several high-priced specialties, the first-named losing 3 to 5 points, while Cuban-American Sugar dropped 30 points from its last sale of a month ago to 140. Trading was broad and active in the first hour, but slackened later when the market developed renewed irregularity. Liberty bonds sold at 99.76 to 99.82.

Dealings dwindled steadily in the afternoon and movements became more conflicting. United States Steel held firm. Bethlehem and Midvale steels reacted sharply and rails also eased with various specialties, including Cuban Cane Sugar.

CORN IS UP SLIGHTLY IN A QUIET MARKET

Good Weather Causes Early Selling, but Reaction Follows; Oats Firm.

Traders favored the selling side of the corn market here today, and prices averaged a fraction lower in the early dealings. Predictions of low temperatures with frost over Iowa and the Northwest, however, made for good support to the market on the decline.

Local corn receipts were 54,000 bu compared with 26,000 bu last year, and shipments 19,000 bu, against 15,000 bu. The total primary movement for the day, however, was well under last year.

Oats were quiet, but fractionally lower with corn, due to less urgent cash demands and improved weather conditions.

The Liverpool wheat market remains steady, with arrivals moderate and export offers lighter. Corn market, from a supply and demand standpoint, is unchanged with buyers anxious and offers light. Spot is generally not offered and therefore business is restricted, millers' demand continues. Oats are steady with a better demand from importers and holders less inclined to sell.

The Modern Miller says plowing and seeding in the Southwest and plowing in the Northwest has, up to the present time, surpassed all previous record. Plowing in Western Canada is on a larger scale than ever before. There is good germination of early sown wheat in the Southwest. There has been some delay in seeding in Western Kansas because of dry weather. It is conceded that the acreage to wheat will be equal to last year.

The Ohio October State report estimates the wheat crop at 42,800,000 bu. Government, September, 39,000,000 bu; quality, 102; 15 per cent of 1916 crop still in farmers' hands Corn prospect, 94; August, 92; year ago, 96. Oats crop, 69,000,000 bu.

The French wheat crop for 1917 is estimated at 145,000,000 bu of 60 pounds, against 213,000,000 bu last year. Rye, at 28,000,000 bu, against 36,000,000 bu last year. Oats, 245,000,000 bu, against 289,000,000 bu last year. Barley, 32,000,000 bu, against 41,000,000 bu last year.

The weather forecast said: Illinois—Fair and cooler tonight, with frost in north and center; Saturday and Sunday, fair.

Missouri—Fair tonight; Saturday and Sunday; somewhat cooler tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight, with heavy frost; Saturday, fair and warmer.

Minnesota—Fair tonight, with frost in east; Saturday, fair and warmer.

Iowa—Fair tonight; probably frost; cooler in east and center; Saturday, fair and warmer.

North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas—Fair tonight; Saturday and Sunday, warmer.

Clearances of wheat today, 131,000 bu; corn, 147,000 bu; oats, 554,000 bu; flour, 22,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 230,000 bu.

Bradstreet's showed exports of wheat last week were 4,307,000 bu; corn, 424,000 bu.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The demand for wool continues steadily through the trade and the volume of business accomplished during the week has been as large, doubtless, as that in the weeks immediately preceding, while prices have kept very strong. Low scoured wools advanced about 5 cents a pound in the past fortnight, although greasy wools showed hardly any rise. Manufacturers are getting further orders from the Government and apparently are having a fair trade in light wools. Some further buying is reported from the West at fully last week's prices for country "bunch" lots.

CORN IS IRREGULAR IN THE CHICAGO PIT

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Better weather and confirmation of the British victory in Belgium tended today to ease down the corn market. Besides, indications pointed to favorable conditions over Sunday for maturing late planted corn. Trade was largely of a scattering character.

Opening quotations, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c lower, at $1.18¼ to $1.18⅞ for December and $1.14⅞ to $1.15⅛ for May, were followed by moderate further declines, but then by a good reaction.

Oats fluctuated with corn. Cash houses were fair sellers.

Reports that the Belgium Relief Commission had made liberal purchases of lard and meats gave strength to nearby deliveries of provisions.

Deferred options, however, showed weakness in sympathy with the hog market.

Scantiness of offerings led afterward to a material advance. Receipts were small. The market closed firm, ⅝@¾c to ⅞c net higher at $1.19⅝@1.19½ December, and $1.16 May.

COTTON VALUES SHARPLY ADVANCED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The low temperatures reported in the northwestern part of the country appeared to cause a good deal of nervousness in the cotton market during today's early trading. There was no apparent threat of frost, but at this season of the year the possibility of cold waves working down into producing sections is generally in mind.

The market opened steady at a decline of 10 points on October, but generally 1 to 3 points higher, with the active months selling about 30 to 34 points above last night's closing figures during the early trading.

Spot house brokers were buyers on the advance to 25.61c for December and and 25.41c for January, while there was covering by some of yesterday's sellers for a reaction and a moderate scattering demand.

The advance during the second hour extended to 25.69c for December and 25.50c for January, or about 40 points above last night's closing figures. Liverpool was a good buyer and there were rumors that the Government was placing large orders for cotton goods.

Demand was by no means as active and general as earlier in the week, however, and the market was easier around midday, with prices showing reactions of some 10 to 15 points. Detailed weather reports were considered favorable and the weekly figures showed a considerable increase in Liverpool stocks.
